DIAZ IS RECALLED GAMBOA GETS BUSY

Campaign for Presidency Is Being Rapidly Whipped Into Shape

REBELS AND FEDERALS CLASH

Artillery Duel Pulled Off at Aura—Attitude of Catholic Party in the Turbulent Republic of Mexico.

Mexico City, Sept. 27.—General Porfirio Diaz, ex-President of Mexico, has been summoned by the War Department to return to Mexico for active army service. A cablegram sent to General Diaz today brought a noncommittal reply from the ex-President, asking the war minister to await the arrival of a letter which he would dispatch him.

General Diaz now is at Biarritz, France. It is recognized here that General Diaz is too old to render service, except possibly in an advisory capacity, and it is assumed that this will be expected of him.

The last words of General Diaz when he left Mexico were to the effect that he would return only if the country needed his services in the event of a foreign invasion.

No intimation is given as to the reason prompting his recall. His resignation from the army was accepted by President Madero.

Gamboa Gets Busy.

Mexico City, Sept. 27.—Federico Gamboa is losing no time in getting his campaign for the Presidency under way. With only four weeks intervening before the election and relieved of his duties as minister, he has plunged into the work of organization and already has laid plans for a campaign of spell-binding which probably will draw him personally into the field as a political orator.

Hundreds of telegrams were sent today from the temporary headquarters of the Catholic party to the heads of the party divisions in various parts of the country. Twenty-five public speakers will take the field within a few days in the smaller cities and villages. Senor Gamboa himself, it was said today, doubtless will visit a number of cities.

Permanent campaign headquarters have been engaged and arrangements are going forward for the publication upon screens and moving pictures with claims of the candidates.

A coalition between the Catholics and some elements of the so-called Liberals is counted on, according to leaders of the Catholic party. Individuals of the most radical wing of the Liberals have approached Catholics with a proposition to put forward Senor Gamboa and General Rascon as the candidates also of their faction.

This is in line with Senor Gamboa's stipulation upon accepting the Presidential candidacy, that he should regard himself as the candidate of the whole people.

The Catholic party leaders hope by obtaining the co-operation of some of the Liberals to break the influence of the Liberal party in the Chamber of Deputies and prevent the consummation of that party's threatened effort to postpone the elections.

An Artillery Duel.

Piedras Niegras, Mexico, Sept. 27.—A protracted artillery duel today between Constitutionalists and the Mexican Federal army under General Maas, beginning the long expected advance into Constitutionalists' headquarters at Aura. Preparations have been made for a decisive engagement tomorrow.

Losses on both sides today are said to have been heavy. The Federals are better equipped with artillery but successful cavalry charges are said to have checked their advance.

Americans in the disturbed district have been ordered to leave.

An International Question.

Green Is Chosen State President

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 27.—After suppressing several attempts by Republican postmasters to have the convention criticise President Wilson's administration and policies, affecting the personnel of the postal service, the Virginia and North Carolina Postmasters' Association today highly commended the administration of Postmaster General Burleson for "official acts showing both fairness to the men of the service and ability of high order."

The convention straightened out the authorship of a lost motion by Postmaster Edgar Allan, Jr., of Richmond, regretting that the Postoffice Department had not seen fit to send a representative to the convention. This motion had been attributed to S. Brown Allen, postmaster at Staunton, Va., who on the first day of the convention had emphasized in his annual address that at every previous convention the department had sent a representative.

E. M. C. Quimby, of Suffolk, was elected president of the Virginia Postmasters' Association, and H. McL. Green, the new Democratic postmaster at Wilmington, was elected president of the North Carolina Association. The two conventions decided to continue the arrangement of joint meetings. The next place of meeting was not decided.

Treat With Rebels

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Sept. 27.—It is reported that John Lind intends to suggest to the administration at Washington the advisability of sending a confidential agent to treat with the rebels in a capacity similar to his own. The general belief is held here that if a suggestion for an armistice were made by the rebels, President Huerta would agree.

GOOD ROADS PROCLAMATION

Governor Craig Sets Apart Good Roads Days and Calls on Every Citizen to Observe Same—November 5th and 6th.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 27.—Declaring that the people of North Carolina lose twelve million dollars annually because of the poor condition of the State's highways, Governor Locke Craig today issued a proclamation designating November 5th and 6th as "Good Roads Days," and calling on all patriotic people throughout the State to work upon the public roads of the State on those days.

The Governor pointed out that the modern highway is essential to material prosperity and social advancement of every community, and declared the country has awakened to the importance of improved roads.

Characterizing the vast sum lost annually to North Carolina through lack of good roads as "a tribute paid to mud," Governor Craig's proclamation calls upon every able-bodied man "to shoulder his shovel, march out and strike a blow for progress."

The "Good Roads Days" are appointed as "days of festival, to celebrate the beginning of a new era wherein improved highways shall be built in every neighborhood.

Summoning the people of every station to answer the call of patriotism, the proclamation calls on the "farmer, the merchant, the lawyer, the doctor, the minister of the gospel, the rich and the poor to enlist as volunteers in this mighty army for grand accomplishment."

In Systematic Manner.

The work will be organized and conducted in a systematic manner, so that at the end of the second day every community in the State will show permanent road improvement. All road overseers, good roads associations, boards of trade and all associations and organizations for public welfare and civic improvement are urged to aid the movement. County commissioners are called on to issue proclamations urging the people to participate in the work.

Declaring that the farmers, more than any other class, are dependent upon the country roads, Governor Craig's proclamation says:

"I call upon the president of the Farmers' Union to issue his proclamation to the farmers of North Carolina, that this great body of our citizenship, constituting as it does, the bone and sinew of the State, may join with energy and enthusiasm in the movement."

Women Invited to Help.

The women are summoned to lend their presence.

Mayors of towns and cities of the State are urged to issue proclamations summoning all citizens to aid. In conclusion the Governor says:

"Let every North Carolinian show by his work that he is for the improvement of the State."

The funeral of the late Alfred Jones, who was drowned in James river, Richmond, a few days ago, was conducted from the home of his mother on Newbern avenue, this morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Dr. O'Kelly, of the Baptist church. The remains reached here last evening at 6 o'clock.

Robert Tudor was brought from Lillington today to answer the charge of being one of the young men who fired upon Captain of Police Patterson last Sunday morning in this city. He was captured in Lillington yesterday. The police are still looking for Adolphus Russess, the other young man wanted for the shooting.

Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, instructor in anatomy in Bellevue Hospital Medical College, has been chosen for a professorship in Wake Forest College to succeed Dr. Edward S. Ruth, resigned.

Cary and Wakelon have been chosen as the locations for the two farm life schools that Wake county is to establish forthwith. The selections were made by a committee of which Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of public instruction, was a member.

SOLONS TAKE UP LOCAL MEASURES

Freight Rates and Amendments Sent to Back Seat in the Legislature

WEARING U. S. UNIFORM

Bill to Regulate Use of Soldier Apparel and Treatment of Persons Wearing It—Increase Pay Attorney General.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 27.—Freight rate and constitutional amendment questions took a back seat today in the Legislature, when local legislation and special issues came to the front.

The Senate consumed the larger part of an hour and a half session in discussing a bill by Senator Peterson, of Sampson, making it a misdemeanor for any one not in the United States army or navy or State militia to wear any distinctive part of the uniform, or for any person to refuse admission to any soldier or sailor, solely on account of his uniform, into a place of public amusement or a common carrier.

The chief opponents of the measure were Senators Jones, Evans, of Pitt; Mason and Wakefield. The principal objection was it might lead, they thought, to trouble in cases of negro regulars quartered in the State wishing to gain admission to theatres.

Affliction of "Assumacy".

Senator Mason insisted that it seemed an attempt to regulate society, that sometimes people wearing the uniform were afflicted with "assumacy" and he did not doubt that at times some of them made themselves obnoxious in public places and there should be the right to eject them.

Finally Senator Phillips, of Davidson, a friend of the bill, offered an amendment striking out the section that was feared. It then was passed on second reading by vote of 18 to 8, but was not allowed to go on its third reading, Senator Jones objecting.

Attorney General's Pay.

Senator Nimocks, of Cumberland, introduced bills to require the whole time of each member of the Corporation Commission and to require the attorney general to reside at the Capital City during his term of office; to abolish the office of assistant attorney general, and to increase the salary of the attorney general, who shall devote his entire time to the work. The salary increase is $4,000.

Senator Phillips offered a bill to make "Good Roads Days" November 5th and 6th, legal holidays.

In the House.

The decision not to consider constitutional amendments until Tuesday, the introduction of another large bunch of local bills, the passing of many bills on third reading, and the referring of all public bills to committees, were the principal things that the House considered in a two-hour and three-quarter session. The House will not meet until noon Monday. Speaker Pro Tem. Wooten, of Lenoir, presided in the absence of Speaker Murphy.

The House voted to take up regular consideration of the constitutional amendment proposals in committee of the whole Tuesday, on motion Representative Dowd, who carried this point over Williams, of Hertford, and Williams, of Buncombe, who wanted consideration of amendments to begin in committee of the whole this afternoon.

New Bills Introduced.

Among bills introduced in the House were:

Seawell—To enable Sanford to issue bonds for improvements.

Koonce—Promote better drainage in Onslow county.

Koonce—Amend laws relative to submission of salary system to voters of Onslow county.

Koonce—Allow banks and trust companies to act as county treasurer.

Faircloth—Regulate fishing in Fish Run river, Sampson county.

Mauney—To regulate killing of calves for veal.

Koonce—To provide better railroad facilities for Jacksonville; Provide for waterworks and street improvements in Jacksonville by bond issue.

Whitford—Repeal act relative to fishing in Slocum creek, Craven county.

Williamson—Provide road commission for Columbus county; Incorporate Fair Bluff, Columbus county.

Kellum's Motion Lost.

The motion of Representative Kellum to recall the House resolution relative to the limit, October 1st, for introducing local bills and placing the Senate joint resolution on the calendar, was lost, 33 to 23, leaving the House resolution in force, instead of a joint resolution.

Among third reading bills passed were:

Authorize the town of Washington to issue bonds. Validate bonds issued by Beaufort county and to create a sinking fund.

Authorize increase in special tax district, Duplin county.

Authorize Selma to issue bonds for waterworks and other purposes.

Authorize Wilson to issue bonds for street improvements.

Amend laws relative to time of holding courts in Washington and Beaufort counties.

Authorize Newbern to remove and re-inter certain dead bodies.

Allow board of aldermen of Goldsboro and commissioners of Wayne county to exempt from local taxation certain bonds.

Amend law relative to fishing in Duplin county.

Validate special tax election in Sampson county.

Inquiry to Railroads.

WOMAN IN CASE AT SULZER HEARING

"Mysterious" Female Who May Know of Wall Street Transactions

BARTERED HIS INFLUENCE

State Department Employes May Testify—Line of Governor's Defense is Uncertain—Plight of Garrison.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27.—A mysterious woman who is believed by the board of managers of the impeachment trial of Governor Sulzer to be conversant with many of his Wall Street transactions, is being sought.

Detectives have been searching for her in New York for weeks, it was learned today. On one occasion a detective called at her home and a woman who answered the door said she was the much wanted witness. But the process servers were convinced they were talking with a maid, left without serving the papers. There yet exists a possibility, it is believed, of serving her. Testimony the woman could give is desired next week along with that regarding the Governor's deals in stocks.

None of the transactions was made directly through the woman as the Governor's agent, it is said, but she is believed to know much of the manner in which the deals between him and his agent or agents, were consummated.

Frederick L. Colwell, the Governor's alleged "dummy" in certain Wall Street ventures, was not produced by attorneys for the defense today and tonight it appears more unlikely than ever that he will testify. Friends of the Governor said illness might prevent Colwell from taking the stand. They still were firm in their assertion that he was not attempting to conceal himself and would be a willing witness if able.

Charges that the Governor bartered his political influence will be taken up early next week. Two witnesses, Chester C. Platt, the Governor's secretary, and John A. Waldron, a recorder of executive bills, have been served with papers in connection with this feature of the case.

Platt was ordered to produce the reports of John Carlisle, State highway commissioner, in connection with certain projected road improvements. The reports were made while Carlisle was a member of the committee of inquiry appointed by the Governor and opposed approval of a bill for improvements. Waldron must produce the bill.

According to a charge made by Eugene Lamb Richards in his opening address on behalf of the assembly managers, $190,000 was expended from the general fund of the State for one county highway. It is alleged that he signed the bill in exchange for the vote of Assemblyman J. Lewis Patrie for his direct primary bill.

A similar trade is alleged to have been effected between Assemblyman H. G. Prime, Jr., and the Governor. Richards charged in his speech that the Governor told Prime his motto was "You for Me and Me for You."

At the extraordinary session of the legislature Prime voted for the Governor's direct primary bill. Mr. Richards called attention to the fact that Prime had not voted on the bill at the regular session.

What final disposition will be made of the case of James C. Garrison, held in the Albany county penitentiary for contempt of the Assembly was the subject of much discussion today. His friends plan to use every effort to induce the Assemblymen to release the prisoner when the Assembly re-convenes on October 6th.

There was much speculation in Albany today as to what will be the nature of the defense of Governor Sulzer. It is said that even the Governor's attorneys do not know just what his entire defense will be. This is

WAS NO DANGER OF LYNCHING

Hamlet Citizens Resent Intimation They Were Bent on Mob Violence—Prisoner Nance Taken to Raleigh.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Hamlet, N. C., Sept. 27.—Both of the towns, Rockingham and Hamlet, awoke this morning to discover that according to newspaper report they had been made famous by the reported attempting lynching of George S. Nance, wife murderer, who was carried to the criminal insane department of the State penitentiary yesterday by the sheriff of this county and the heroic rescue by Sheriff Baldwin.

Your correspondent has investigated this report and finds that a serious slander has been made against both the towns of Rockingham and Hamlet as there was at no time only no danger of a lynching, but no possibility of one. No crowd from this place moved towards Rockingham and no thought of any lynching was had by any one at this place. At Rockingham your correspondent was advised that there was no crowd of any nature there and the only intimation of a lynching was in the fertile brain of the newspaper correspondent who sent out such a sensational story. Out of precaution Sheriff Baldwin in his Ford car carried Nance to Hoffman and boarded the train for Raleigh instead of bringing him through Hamlet, where the crime was committed and where the citizens were naturally incensed that even a stranger should murder his wife and set fire to a hotel and committing a crime which, for cold-bloodedness, has never been equalled in this county. The people of Hamlet are law-abiding citizens and when the alienists pronounced Nance insane, while not satisfied with the verdict, had no other thought but to let the law take its course and in the name of this town and the county your correspondent is sending this report to correct the false impression carried in the misleading report of the attempted lynching. M. W. NASH.

Nance in State's Prison.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 27.—The Richmond county authorities this morning committed to the penitentiary George S. Nance, who killed his wife in a hotel at Hamlet several weeks ago, under circumstances that give rise to the defense that he is insane.

He was spirited away from Rockingham last night by Sheriff Baldwin to prevent a lynching that it was believed had been planned. Taken in an automobile with a number of deputies, he was taken at high speed to Hoffman, where the train for Raleigh was caught. The party reached here this morning at 1 o'clock, but could not get their prisoner in the State's prison until 9 o'clock this morning. In the meantime the city prison was used.

In cases of this sort the county authorities committing the prisoner for safe keeping have to pay the prison authorities for the keep of the prisoner. Nance will be here until the Richmond county authorities are ready for his trial.

PROVIDES PLENTY OF REVENUE

New Tariff Bill Success in This Particular—Furor Over Cotton Futures Tax—Sharp Break in New Orleans.

Washington, Sept. 27.—A surplus of from $10,000,000 to $16,000,000 over current needs of the government will be provided by the new tariff law, in the opinion of Senator Simmons, chairman of the joint conference committee, which is to report the completed Democratic tariff bill to the House and the Senate next week.

Experts from the Treasury Department worked late tonight on an estimate of the revenues the government will receive under the law, but did not finish their task.

Interest centered today about the development in the fight over the proposed tax on trades in cotton futures. Representative Underwood introduced in the House the so-called Smith-Lever compromise plan which has the endorsement of the President, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Postmaster General and many Southern Senators and members of Congress. This will be advocated in the House next week, and Representative Underwood expects the House to instruct its conferees to insist on the amendment going into the tariff bill.

Senate leaders today would not admit that the Senate would accept the compromise. Some Senate Democrats are its warm champions. Senator Clarke, author of the provision passed by the Senate, expects to make a strong fight against the compromise.

The essential difference between the two plans is that the Clarke amendment would impose a tax of 50 cents a bale on all future trades where actual cotton is not delivered, while the Smith-Lever plan would require cotton contracts to specify government grades and would establish a definite method of enforcing the delivery of merchantable cotton at fair market prices.

The conference report was completed today and will be laid before the Republican conferees. Of the 676 amendments to the bill taken up by the Democratic conferees, the House receded on 427 and the Senate on 151, while 97 were compromised. Only one amendment, that on cotton futures, is left in disagreement.

Effect in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—News that Majority Leader Underwood has introduced into the House the Smith-Lever cotton future tax measure which traders misinterpreted, caused one of the most remarkable breaks the New Orleans cotton market has seen in some time. The report was received only a few minutes before the close and struck the market when it was bound upward on continued bad weather reports. New high levels of the season had been reached.

Immediately there was a rush to unload and within a few minutes the market was demoralized. Prices that had stood 13 to 16 points over yesterday's close soon were battered down. The final gong sounded amid pandemonium when the market was 18 to 22 points under the highest of the day.

NEW YORK POLICE FIND MRS. NICHOLS

Wilmington Woman Arrested in Gotham on Warrant From Here.

EMBEZZLEMENT THE CHARGE

Capias Served in Former Society Leader in New York Last Night—Application for Requisition Papers.

Shortly before last midnight Sheriff S. P. Cowan received a telegram from one of the police stations in New York City advising him of the arrest in that city of Mrs. Allan B. Nichols, formerly a leader in exclusive social circles in Wilmington, who is wanted here on the charge of embezzling funds belonging to her former close friend, Mrs. Helene P. LeMassena, of Philadelphia. There are three separate indictments against her and the total amount alleged in the indictments to have been embezzled is about $15,000.

Sheriff Cowan immediately sent a message to Solicitor Homer L. Lyon, at Whiteville, notifying him of the arrest of Mrs. Nichols. The solicitor will make application to the Governor for requisition papers early this week. It is expected now that in a few days an officer will be sent to New York to bring Mrs. Nichols back here for trial.

The indictments against Mrs. Nichols were returned by the grand jury at the July term of Superior Court. Immediately a capias was issued and sent to New York City together with copies of the bills of indictment. Sheriff Cowan had received information at different times, which indicated to him that the New York police were on trail of Mrs. Nichols. Only a few weeks ago he received a letter from the New York officers asking that he send them a photograph of Mrs. Nichols and a good description of her. The photograph and description were furnished the New York police. Nothing further was heard from the New York police until the telegram came last night. Particulars of the arrest were not given in the telegram.

The public is familiar with the particulars of the charge against Mrs. Nichols, as the substance of the bills of indictment were published at the time. With interest the public will now await a statement from Mrs. Nichols as to her side of the affair.

THE WHALEY CONTEST.

Elections Committee of Congress Hears from Mayor Grace.

Washington, Sept. 27.—After hearing in executive session charges by Mayor Grace, of Charleston, S. C., against the election of Representative Whaley, of the Second South Carolina District, the House Elections Committee today adjourned until Wednesday without making arrangements for further hearings.

Mayor Grace's recent petition to Speaker Clark for an investigation of the primaries at which Whaley was chosen and which alleged among other irregularities that Whaley spent more than $60,000 in his campaign, an amount greatly in excess of that permitted by law—was the basis of today's hearing, although Mayor Grace had been informed that his sworn statement was not sufficient for an investigation. The Mayor appeared today to supplement his charges.

Congressman Whaley has characterized Mayor Grace's charges as "a bold, bald lie."

Jackson, Mo., Sept. 27.—The St. Louis Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church today rejected a proposed memorial to the general conference of the Church, asking that Methodist preachers be required to demand health certificates from candidates for matrimony. The conference adopted a memorial in favor of lay representation of women in the general conference.

The Cotton Tax Is Now Doomed

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—It now seems probable that the Clark amendment to the tariff bill providing for a tax of 50 cents a bale on all orders for cotton not actually delivered is doomed to defeat.

The Senate and House conferees have disagreed on the amendment and it is believed when the measure comes to the Senate it will be dropped altogether and that Senator Clarke will be forced to take up his bill at the regular session as a separate piece of legislation.

It is understood here tonight that a number of patronage matters will be taken up by Senator Simmons as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way. Probably the district attorneyship and the marshalship for the East will be disposed of within the next 30 days. It is certain that Senator Simmons will talk to Attorney General McReynolds and President Wilson with reference to appointments for these places the latter part of next week.

As soon as the tariff measure and the patronage questions are disposed of, Senator Simmons will go to his farm near Newbern and rest for a couple of weeks. The senior Senator has been constantly on the job since the tariff bill was sent to the Senate.

FOR WORLD SERIES.

For the world series which begins on the Polo Grounds a week from Tuesday, The Star has made arrangements to receive the returns "hot off the bat," play by play, over private leased wire in The Star building. Every play will be flashed to us right from the baseball grounds without relays of any kind, and will be announced by megaphone and posted within an incredibly few seconds after it occurs, and the usual invitation is extended to the public to come down and get the first returns to reach Wilmington.

Notwithstanding a recent ruling by the National Baseball Commission that no player shall write World Series "dope" for the newspapers, "Rube" Marquard's representative has assured us that he will furnish his daily wire letter during the series, despite the ruling of the commission.

THE WORLD SERIES CELEBRITIES.

(No. 2 Merkle vs. McInnis.)

Both catchers—world's series catchers. You know Meyers as such, but you know Schang more familiarly as a member of the "Schush" family. Allow us to hint that you will know him even better as a catcher along about the middle of October.

Walter Schang, the Buffalo boy, the razzling, dazzling 1913 "find" of Connie the canny, is only playing his second year as a professional. Mack drew him out of a hat last year. There were 12 other drafts in the derby, but aw! well—you know, Lucky Connie Mack.

Bright, active and fast, a good hitter, and, well—we will not say a word about his great throwing arm; all we shall say is that he is one of the fellows who can fight about when the argument comes up as to who is the best catcher on the American circuit, and that he only has to play to form to be one of the sensations of the series. Not a word more.

Watch Schang, and watch Connie Mack, poor, unfortunate, Connie—it's too bad about Connie—watch him too. Watch him smile.

'Nuff about John Tortes Meyeres. The great silent Indian of the West is still as reliable as he is great. Playing with the quiet fortitude of his race, he works on steadily and brilliantly, never shirking and uncomplaining. He leads the team in hitting, and his big bat still instills confidence in his cohorts and fear in the enemy.

You don't have to watch the Chief.

WORK AT NAVY YARDS.

Secretary Daniels Would Concentrate All Repairs, Etc., of Craft.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Proposing to maintain all the government navy yards at their highest efficiency through continuous employment of the various mechanics, Secretary Daniels is devising a plan by which he hopes to induce all the executive branches of the government to send to the yards all repair work to be done on all types of floating craft owned by the government. Mr. Daniels hopes in the comparatively near future to have all government craft constructed at government plants.

Mr. Daniels points out that uninterrupted employment for navy yard workers is essential to the efficient operation of naval stations as auxiliaries to the fleet, while failure to give continuous employment to a limited number of skilled mechanics may seriously impair the usefulness of the plants in times of emergency. His plan would send to government yards all the repair and construction work on revenue cutters, transports, lightships, tugs, barges and other craft used by the different executive departments. The number of such vessels in use will be largely increased when the Panama Canal is opened.

TO OPPOSE UNDERWOOD.

Henry D. Clayton to Run for Senate in Alabama.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Representative Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, will remain in the field as a candidate for the Senate from the State, even if he has to contest with Oscar W. Underwood, the House leader, for the nomination. In a statement today Mr. Clayton said he would run whether Mr. Underwood entered the field or not.

"I hope he will not run," said Mr. Clayton. "He and I always have been warm friends. He has been highly honored by the people of Alabama. His entrance now in the Senatorial race would not be fair to our mutual friends or fair to me."

Representative Underwood is known to be considering entering the Senatorial race.

Rockland, Me., Sept. 27.—The coal laden schooner Alice May Davenport, with nine men aboard, struck today on Western Bay ledge, near Hurricane Isle, at the mouth of Penobscot Bay. Her position was reported as precarious. A tug and life saving crew were sent to her assistance. The schooner was bound from Newport News to Bangor.

M'NAUGHTON GETS CLEMENCY.

Death Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment by Governor Slaton.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 27.—The sentence of Dr. W. J. McNaughton, condemned to hang October 3rd, for the murder of F. R. Flanders, today was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor John M. Slaton.

In announcing his decision, Governor Slaton said the evidence all was more or less circumstantial and expert testimony by physicians of high standing offered since the trial impressed on him the gallibility of human judgment.

Dr. McNaughton was found guilty of poisoning Flanders in Emanuel county, June 4th, 1910. Mrs. Mattie Flanders, wife of the dead man, was indicted for complicity.

During the illness of Flanders and after his death Dr. McNaughton, who lived at the Flanders' home diagnosed the case as acute nephritis.

The case against Dr. McNaughton went to the Supreme Court of the United States where the original verdict was sustained.

The State Pardon Board recently recommended a full pardon for Dr. McNaughton.

Mrs. Flanders never has been tried.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 27.—"I am much disappointed," said Dr. W. J. McNaughton here tonight when told of Governor Slaton's decision. "I had confidently expected a complete pardon."

SENATORS IN SECOND PLACE WITH LEAD OF ONE GAME

Defeated New York Yankees While Naps Dropped Two Games

COBB'S WONDERFUL BATTING

Ray Collins' Twirling Baffled American League Champions—Jim Scott an Enigma to St. Louis Browns.

The Washington Senators implanted themselves in second place with a margin of eight points when they took their third straight game from the New York Yankees in the final game of the season by a score of eight to three yesterday afternoon. Bob Groom twirled wonderful ball for the Nationals, but was relieved in the eighth by Love, who allowed three scores in the ninth inning on two singles and four passes.

Due mainly to the wonderful batting of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, world champion batter for the season of 1913, the Cleveland Naps took two successive defeats at the hands of the Detroit Tigers yesterday afternoon, deposing themselves from their second place stand. Cobb pounded out two triples, a double and three singles ofr the afternoon.

Ray Collins proved an enigma to the Philadelphia American champions yesterday afternoon, and the Boston Red Sox, late world champions, won the game by a score of five to three. Houck was hit freely at opportune moments.

The St. Louis Browns were helpless before Jim Scott yesterday, and 14 men fanned wildly at his dazzling twisters, the White Sox winning six to two.

Bob Groom!

New York, Sept. 27.—Washington made it three straight from New York today. Caldwell, the New York pitching star, was hit hard. Groom pitched brilliantly for the visitors. Love, an Atlanta recruit, relieved Groom in the eighth inning and the locals scored three runs on him in the ninth inning on two singles and four bases on balls. The victory sent Washington to second place.

Detroit, Sept. 27.—Detroit captured a double-header from Cleveland here today. The first game was a slugging match. The second contest, closely fought, was called on account of darkness after the first half of the seventh inning. The double defeat tumbled the Naps from second place and advanced Washington, which won from New York today, to that position.

Cobb's wonderful batting today almost made certain that he would lead the league again this season. In each game he obtained three hits, while Jackson's total for the afternoon was two. Cobb pounded out two triples, a double, and three singles.

ANXIOUS TO PLAY GIANTS.

Chance Would Like a Game Next Spring Before Season Opens.

New York, Sept. 27.—If Manager John McGraw, of the New York Nationals is willing, there will be a series of games at the Polo Grounds here between the Giants and the New York Americans next Spring before the championship season begins. So says Manager Frank Chance, of the Yankees. Chance would like to play the Giants five games after both New York teams have trained in Texas.

It is probable that the series will hang fire until McGraw returns home this week and talks it over with President Hempstead. President Farrell, of the Yankees, declares that he hopes a series can be arranged.

Rheims, France, Sept. 27.—The remarkable speed of 118.6 miles an hour, beating the former official world's record of 111 1-2 miles an hour, was attained here today by both Emile Vedrines and Maurice Prevost, two French aviators. They were flying in the elimination trials to select a French team for the international aeroplane cup race Monday.

CHARLOTTE OFFICER ARRESTED.

Returning From Birmingham With Check Flashers, Held in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 27.—Judge Bell, of the Superior Court, today denied a writ of habeas corpus for W. M. Cleveland and J. P. Smith, brought here from Birmingham, Ala., yesterday, by J. D. Johnson, a Charlotte, N. C., detective. Cleveland and Smith are held as witnesses against Johnson, who is under arrest here charged with kidnapping them. The two witnesses are wanted in North Carolina on a charge of passing worthless checks, according to Johnson. Charges against Johnson allege that he obtained possession of his prisoners without due process of law. The three were detained here en route to Charlotte.

Constantinople, Sept. 27.—Peace negotiations between Bulgaria and Turkey were concluded satisfactorily.

Ready for the First Big Game.

"The batteries for today are Mathewson and Meyers; Bender and Schang". Matty will undoubtedly be McGraw's choice to open the big series on October 7th at the Polo Grounds, and it is almost equally as certain that Big Chief Bender will appose him. Matty has tamed the Big Indian before, and also his running mate, Eddie Plank, and he will be depended on to repeat. He is shown here in an excellent photograph that was made just as he was in the midst of his famous "wind-up".

In The Sportlight's Glare

¶News and Reviews of Doings in the World of Sports--Mostly Baseball : :

A Superfluous Formality.

The principal reason for playing out the next week of the schedules in the big leagues is that the rules of organized baseball compel it. The fans would rather have the umpires call "play ball" for the world's series today, and the world's series teams themselves—the Athletics and Giants—would rather simply quit playing for a week and take a rest, so as to be in better shape for the big wow and to eliminate chances of possible accidents.

However, there will be some rest for the league leaders in the final days of the week, with the pennants clinched beyond the mathematical possibility of doubt. Substitutes and new recruits will get their fling while the veterans recuperate from the strain of playing.

But the week will not be without its interesting features. For one thing, there will be the youngsters to look at, with the idea of "next year" in mind. Many of the players secured in the draft will make their debuts as big leaguers with all of the teams. And then there is that freak series of the Phillies in New York. The first triple-header of the decade is scheduled to open the three-day melee in which five complete games will be played and part of another.

That three-barrelled affair set for next Thursday is one of the queerest kinks that ever developed in the National pastime. The final two-thirds of an inning of that forfeited, protested, overruled, appealed, repealed game will usher in the hostilities followed by a regular double-header. George Chalmers, who was pitching at the time in Philadelphia that the Brennan decision came, will be on the mound again, and facing him will be Jack Murray. George Burns will be on first base, there will be one out and one ball will be called on the batter. Then the thing will begin.

Here are a few questions. The National Commission has ordered that the same pitcher must be on the slab, the same base runner on base and the same batter at bat. How about the umpire? Will Brennan be re-assigned behind the bat? If Chalmers is in poor shape, will the Phillies be allowed to replace him with Seaton, Alexander or someone else after he has pitched one ball to Murray? If Murray is in a batting slump, can he stand up for one pitch and then be supplanted by a batter who has been whaling the ball? If Burns should have a score too, could a substitute base runner be put in for him after the first pitch? Should the two teams make a few such switches, the National Commission may have to take the problem up all over again in case the rivals are particular about who gets credit for being in the contest.

Other events that will attract the attention of fans generally in the National League are the final series between Cubs and Pirates at Chicago, beginning Saturday, to end Sunday, and between Brooklyns and Bostons in the Hub, beginning Thursday and ending Saturday. The first of these will decide third place, in event that the developments of the intervening days should not do so, and the second one will determine the ultimate occupant of fifth place, the leader of the second division, contingent also upon what happens between now and then.

The break of luck in the American League schedule makes the final week a dull one to the extent that none of the pairs in close grapples for particular positions meet. However, there are battles on for places still—at least three of them. Fighting against outside opposition, the Senators and Naps will have it out to see who gets second place, the Red Sox and White Sox will determine fourth place in the same way and the Yankees and Browns fix upon the ultimate occupant of the cellar.

As the big day rolls near, the world's series begins to eat its way into a monopoly of the dope, and will possess said monopoly by gataway time, a week from Monday. The anti-trust scrivener finds it hard to talk on anything else, much as he would desire to. At this date the main question in the mind of the fans is whether Stuffy Jack McInnis will be his real self in the series, if, indeed, he plays at all. The game little first baseman of the Athletics will insist on getting in the fray if it is at all possible for him to make that twisted shoulder behave itself. The physicians say it will be O. K. by then, and he even may perform in some of the games during the coming week, but such ailments are so uncertain that there is no telling positively whether he will be fit or not.

Without McInnis the Mackmen would be under quite a handicap. The veteran Harry Davis probably would put up a steady game at the initial cushion, but in his middle age he lacks the brilliancy of his youthful successor, who undoubtedly would make a number of plays that are impossible for the older man. McInnis might not hit the ball any harder or more consistently than Davis, but he certainly can travel faster and would be a much better man at going from base to base. With Davis on the paths, much of the quick, bold strokes of Connie Mack would be out of the question. It would take more than a reasonably long single to send Davis from first to third on a hit and run play.

The Athletics are surely not the children of Fate those waning September days, unless they be the children of Ill Fate. Not only are they harrassed by the injury of McInnis, but also by the relapse of Jack Coombs, who had just begun to strike his real stride pitching in practice when the aftermath of the typhoid fever came upon him again. Another valuable performer, who has been out of the recent fanning bees, is Amos Strunk, who was hurt back in August. he capable young outfielder also is lost to his chief for the main event of the year.

So much for the hardship of the Athletics. Anybody want us to quote odds on the series? They probably will be generally set at about 10 to 9 on the Giants, owing to the way McGraw's pitching staff is behaving.

First call for scalpers! Get your tickets at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, and the Polo Grounds, New York.

If Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson or Tris Speaker should be nervous wrecks at the end of the present battle for the hitting supremacy of the American League, few could blame them. Such a contest for the honor has not been seen since the days when Burkett, Delehanty and Keeler used to fight it out in the National League. And don't forget that two-man affair in the National—Cravath vs. Daubert. It looks as if neither competition will be decided until the very last day of the campaign. Strain's something awful, Cyril, something awful.

Rumors have seeped around of an open-air fight club in New York, with bouts staged weekly at the Polo Grounds, beginning just after the world's series and lasting until November 1st. What there is in the yarn may come out later. The State Boxing Commission has a rule against open-air fights, and it would, of course, be necessary to have this changed if the scheme were put through. Who is behind the club and has he any influence with the commission? This also may be heard of later. Also the whole thing may be hushed up, buried and forgotten.

University of Pennsylvania is a mysterious quantity in the world of college sport this year. She has new coaches in three big branches—football, rowing and track. But all three have started so well that they have the complete confidence of the student body. George Brooke, who was one of the greatest players the game ever knew and a wonderful kicker back in the early nineties, has put more vim into the practice of his football charges than Franklin Field ever saw before. George Orton already has begun work with his track candidates and Vivian Nickalls has done the same with his crew squad. Each one is full of optimism. Orton's task seems the easiest of all, with that wonderful bunch from last year left over, plus Ted Meredith, but Nickalls seems to have a truly titanic job restoring Penn's prestige in rowing.

The ensuing week will be one full of sadness on many gridirons. The first games of the season today will prove the cause of much juggling in the squads when they turn out for their next practice. Players who had seemed promising in practice do not always pan out in real games, and as a result there will be a lot of these shifted from the 'Varsity to the second team. Very often a man will show plenty of pluck in practice scrimmages but when the real thing arrives he is found to possess a "streak."

COBB VS. JACKSON

Ty Cobb made a clean jump of eight points by yesterday's double-header with the Cleveland Naps, getting a half dozen safe hits out of seven attempts with the willow. Jackson tried the same number of times, with the result that he poled out just two. Tris Speaker has not been in a game since the early part of the week, and is thoroughly eliminated from the race.

SAUNDERS AGAIN ACQUITTED.

Elizabeth City Editor Third Time Escapes Meshes of Law.

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 27.—W. O. Saunders, editor of the Independent at Elizabeth City, was acquitted by a jury in Superior Court here this morning on a charge of criminally libelling E. F. Aydlett, a prominent and wealthy lawyer of that place. The case grew out of an article published in Saunders' paper in regard to business transactions, which it is alleged took place between Aydlett and a man named Brown, of New York, several years ago. This is the third time in two months Saunders has been tried and acquitted of criminal libel.

THE LEADING SWATTERS

The Ten Leading Big Stick Men in Each League for the Week Ending Last Thursday.

The week ending last Thursday shows Tyrus Raymond Cobb with a net gain of four points for the week and a lead of eleven points over Joe Jackson who dropped a couple of points and is now standing at a .373 clip. Tris Speaker, for third honors, shows a loss of three points for the week, eight points below Jackson. The batting sensations of the week were Gilhooley, the dazzling new acquisition of the New York Yankees, who came up from a stand at .307 to a tie with Stuffy McInnis at .329, having batted around .750 for the entire week, and Maisel, another of the Peerless Leader's finds, who ascended from .225 to .250 for the week. The American circuit shows but fourteen .300 batters for the week.

The National shows Earl Yingling, the Brooklyn twirler, again installed in first place, and Jake Daubert, real batting leader, still leading Gavvy Cravath by a matter of four points. No radical changes are shown in the standing of the other contestants for batting honors, except that the number of .300 swatters has been thinned down to 13.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX READY

Now Practically in Effect and Arrangements Being Made for Its Collection Through Internal Revenue Collectors.

Washington, Sept. 27.—According to estimates completed today by Treasury experts, 425,000 American citizens must keep such accurate account of their incomes this year that they will be able to report to the income tax collector next Spring exactly how much they owe the government under the new income tax law.

So far as the taxable American is concerned the income law now virtually is in force against him. While under the tariff bill the first returns do not have to be made to the Internal Revenue collectors before March 1, 1914, when the returns are made they will cover the income of citizens from March 1, 1913, to December 31st.

Every single person (citizen or foreign resident) whose annual income exceeds $3,000; and every married person with an income of more than $4,000 will have to report receipts in detail to government agents March 1st each year. The estimate completed today indicates that the income tax will produce $82,298,000. To this will be added the $35,000,000 or more produced by the present corporation tax, which is continued as part of the law.

President Wilson, Federal Judges of the Supreme Court and inferior courts now holding office, and employes of "State or any political sub-division thereof," are the only persons specifically excepted from the tax by the new law. Their successors in office will be compelled to pay the tax.

The general public is expected to give close study to the new law in the next few months as the first burden of the tax payment rests with the individual citizen and his failure to report his income is punishable by a fine.

Two primary methods of collecting the tax are contained in the law. One is the individual return, made by the citizen, the other, returns by corporations and other employers who pay their employes' taxes "at the source." Under the law as it will be signed by President Wilson next week, every large company employing labor will be compelled to report any regular salaries it pays in excess of the $3,000 figures and will pay the taxes for its employes and deduct the tax from their pay envelopes.

In figuring up his net income for the taxpayer, the American business man, after deducting $3,000 for himself, or $4,000 if married, will have the right to claim the following additional exemptions: Necessary expenses of carrying on business, not including personal living or family expenses. Interest paid out on indebtedness. National, State, county, school or municipal taxes paid within the year. Trade losses or storm or fire losses not covered by insurance. Worthless debts charged off during the year. A reasonable allowance for the depreciation of property. Dividends from companies whose income already has been taxed. Interest from State, municipal or government bonds.

Exemptions claimed under the law must be submitted to the Federal officers for them to determine upon their reasonableness or legality.

The amount of the income tax as finally agreed on, follows: From $3,000 to $20,000, one per cent; from $20,000 to $50,000 two per cent; from $50,000 to $75,000, three per sent; from $75,000 to $100,000, four per cent; from $100,000 to $250,000, five per cent; from $250,000 to $500,000, six per cent; above $500,000, seven per cent.

THE STAR'S NEW HOME.

The Wilmington Star celebrated its 46th anniversary Tuesday and just before entering upon a new year it purchased a home of its own. Top o' the morning to The Star. May it continue to shine with ever-increasing brilliancy. We rejoice in its prosperity.—Lumberton Robesonian.

The Wilmington Star is to have a new home in the not far distant future and it is planned that with a new structure fitted throughout for the accommodation of their wants, The Star as an effective force for the upbuilding of this section has long since been recognized and with its removal to a new structure, and while we may be telling secrets, the installation of a new modern stereo press,and the issuance of an every day in the year paper, the oldest paper in the State is just now on the threshold of the greatness that is coming to it. Long live The Star.—Rocky Mount Telegram.

The Wilmington Star has recently purchased a home of its own on Chesnut street, and will move into it immediately. Since the paper was bought by a new firm it has been in rented quarters, though at the time it was owned and published by Major Bernard, it owned its home. No newspaper in Eastern North Carolina has ever reached a higher standard of excellence than has The Star, and the men who make it are to be congratulated on the work that they are doing. They are giving the people of Wilmington a paper of which they may feel proud, and one which promises to grow bigger and better as the years go by.—Greenville Reflector.

The Wilmington Star, the State's oldest daily newspaper, is going into a home of its own again after a few years in temporary quarters. It has bought property on Chesnut street, and it will convert the building into one suitable to newspaper uses. When Major Bernard was editor and owner of the paper it had its own home, but after he retired from the business it was printed in rented quarters. The Times congratulates The Star upon the present evidence of its prosperity and upon its general excellence.—Raleigh Times.

We wish to congratulate our esteemed friend The Morning Star, upon the purchase of that large brick structure on Chesnut street. This handsome new home modernly equipped according to proposed plans, will make The Star one of, if not the leading daily of North Carolina.—Loris (S. C.) News.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE CITY?

When a man is sick he knows that something has gone wrong with him. He sends for a doctor who feels the patient's pulse, examines his condition and diagnoses the ailment. Then comes the necessary treatment to get rid of the trouble, if possible.

Cities have their troubles as well as individuals, and as it is a general complaint that most cities do not get along with any great degree of satisfaction, there are experts who can look into their case, diagnose the trouble and prescribe the remedy. Investigating a city so its troubles can be remedied is called "a city survey." The Bureau of Municipal Research originated the system, and it has been tried out with eminent success and astonishing results in some of the largest cities of the country.

The Star heretofore has spoken of the work of the Bureau of Municipal Research. Seeing the need of making a thorough search into municipal government systems with a view to discovering wrongs, mistakes and maladministration, the bureau has experts who have made a study of municipal government, efficiency of administration and economical questions that relate to the management of municipal affairs.

Standardization and efficiency of city service is a very important matter these times, since it is an easy thing to put a tremendous burden on the American people by inefficiency, mistakes and bad city governments. We can realize that when the United States census shows that the people of this country are annually spending $800,000,000 for city governments, practically as much as it requires to conduct the United States government. Realizing how important it is to have efficient and economical city governments, a philanthropic lady donated $40,000 to start a school to train young men for city business. Think of what a woman can do! The training school of the Bureau of Municipal Research, 261 Broadway, New York, is the outgrowth of that woman's benefaction, and today it is doing a tremendous work in the betterment of city governments.

The Saturday Evening Post, in considering this matter of efficient municipal government and touching along the lines we are discussing here truthfully comments: "You've got to organize government business as private business is organized before you can get the same kind of service that private business gets. City business, if it is to be conducted properly, requires training and experience as much as railroad business or steel mill business."

The truth of what the Saturday Evening Post says is fully realized in Wilmington and every other city in the land, so there must be general commendation for the work of the school that is to turn out trained men for city service. Meanwhile the Bureau of Municipal Research is making surveys for cities while it is training young men for service. Atlanta is among the Southern cities that have had surveys made, while scores of cities in the North and West have availed themselves of the service of the bureau.

The object of a survey is to have experts to go over the books of the departments and then submit a report of recommendations for standardization in the operation of accounts. The experts detect the loose screws and inefficiency of employes or the impracticability of a system. Recently a survey was made at Milwaukee and the Journal of that city, says:

"There are many things which the city should do that it is not doing, but the utmost limit of taxation has about been reached, and the only hope of making the city what it should be, which means the broadening of its scope, rests in improving and perfecting the machinery of city government and eliminating everything in the nature of wastefulness.

"The report by the New York Bureau of Municipal Research of its survey of city government in Milwaukee, lays the foundation for the work that should and must be done. The survey was made by experts of great ability and wide experience. They studied intimately and thoroughly the actual conditions that exist here and in prescribing remedies they brought to bear knowledge of what other cities are doing to redeem the failure of American city government.

"The report is exceedingly practical and sensible as well. It contains in concrete form the chief ideas which it is necessary to carry out. * * * to place the administration of municipal affairs upon a basis of real efficiency. * * * There is only one way in which better city government can be established and that is through intelligent and concerted action by the citizens themselves."

The case of Wilmington nearly parallels that of Milwaukee, and in behalf of economic and efficient government, it would be a good idea for the bureau's experts to come and look us over. In most cities public-spirited citizens defray the expense incurred for the survey.

PRODUCTION IS WASTED.

The harvest is about ended and the production season is over, so we must live till the next season on what is saved out of what has been produced the season just ended. If we had saved all that has been produced, we would be in a much better condition to live easier and more economically, but, as a matter of fact, we have let millions of dollars of produce go to waste because we have not canned or preserved such products as we grow in abundance.

We do not utilize the science and economy of canning and we little appreciate the value of refrigeration in preserving some of our foodstuffs and meats. During the past week, the International Congress of Refrigeration has been in session at Chicago and while it was in session the United States Department of Agriculture has had an exhibit in the exposition attached to the Congress of Refrigeration. Uncle Sam's exhibit was designed to show consumers how food products are handled and preserved by low temperatures and to illustrate the importance and widespread investigations that the department has been making in order to prevent waste by spoilage between the producer and the consumer. The idea has been to demonstrate how to save an extra supply in the flush seasons to help us tide over the seasons of scarcity.

The government exhibit showed the people how perishable products like fruits, poultry, eggs, butter, meats, fish, oysters and many other food commodities are prepared for markets that may be 3,000 miles away or even 6,000 miles distant, as in the shipments of Pacific salmon and Northwestern apples, which frequently are shipped in large quantities to European markets. The exhibit showed how refrigerated cars can be used to the best advantage. They were iced, loaded and the whole process demonstrated. Other refrigerated processes were demonstrated.

The congress was greatly interested in Uncle Sam's exhibit along their very line. The Agricultural Department had gathered products from all over the United States and demonstrated how they can be protected and preserved by refrigeration. They were seen as they looked after refrigeration, and along with the process there was a history of each package treated.

In these days of wastefulness, partly responsible for high prices, it was a good idea for the government to make such an exhibit. However, if Uncle Sam will teach the people to can and quit throwing away a large portion of what they produce, he would be doing a grand piece of work. It is estimated that $2,000,000 worth of Wilmington products are allowed to go to waste every year.

FASHION WEEK IN RICHMOND.

It is a good idea for us to keep our eyes on our neighbors so we can make observation of some of their methods for promoting business and attracting trade as well as visitors. Recently Richmond had a glad hand-week, during which she shook hands with thousands of merchants who had been invited to that enterprising city. A splendid programme was carried out under the auspices of Richmond jobbers, retailers and manufacturers, and the result was so highly satisfactory that Richmond decided to pull off something else to help out the Fall retail trade.

During the past week Richmond has had a fashion exposition. The stores made magnificent displays of millinery, women's wear, men's wear, and, in fact, all lines of merchandise were played up in a way to make the city attractive to visitors and seductive to buyers. Richmond again entertained in royal style, and the probability is that many of the thousands who visited that city wanted to linger still another week.

Richmond seems to have a move on her, and one of the most striking things to be observed is the heartiness with which her business men united to promote all branches of trade in that fine old Virginia city.

SMALL FAVORS THANKFULLY RECEIVED.

Central and Western North Carolina seems to be willing to take $2,000,000 reduction in freight rates and let the railroads have $3,000,000 of the $5,000,000 excess that they have been getting out of North Carolina shippers for years. Two years more of immunity would mean that the railroads would get $6,000,000 under that deal, while the shippers would take a hand-out of $4,000,000 for being good for two years.

There lies between Virginia and South Carolina "a strip of land" that is easily "worked" on account of its boasted conservatism. Frequently not knowing which horn of the dilemma to take is palmed off for conservatism. People who stand on their rights do not necessarily have to sit down on the other fellow unless he persists in standing in the way.

THE HALF A LOAF.

The Charlotte Chronicle puts it this way: "If the proposition of the railroads is fair and right and reasonable, it ought to be accepted without any prolonged wrangle. If it is not what the people want and the industrial interests demand; in other words, if it fails to put North Carolina cities on a platform of even competition with Virginia cities and continues to yoke them to the ground, it ought not to be accepted." And there's just the point. The most ardent advocates of the acceptance of the railroads' proposal would not dare assert in intelligent audience that the proposed settlement puts North Carolina in a dozen city blocks of anything like "a platform of even competition with Virgina cities".

That is wherein the whole structure of the proposed compromise falls of its own weight.

The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday challenges the most earnest consideration and the certain attendance of every loyal Wilmington business man, whether he be a member of the organization or not. In the opinion of men whose opinion is worth while, Wilmington has not faced before in a decade a situation fraught with more importance to the commercial life of the city than the freight rate settlement which will be considered at the meeting, and it will indeed be a sad commentary upon the public spirit of the community if the Chamber is not crowded on this occasion. Every business and professional man should pause just here and lend a hand by entering a mental compact with himself to be present at the meeting tomorrow.

The Charlotte News calls attention to the fact that the Greensboro News sums up the rate proposal of the railroads in this fashion: "A half a loaf may give us strength to battle for the square meal." Nevertheless, North Carolina doesn't have to get in the breadline. She can keep out of it by regulating her own rate question like Minnesota and Wisconsin have done in the full exercise of their sovereignty. North Carolina should not put up her paws for a hand-out from anybody. When this State acknowledges its helplessness it is time to quit celebrating the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

Augusta has organized a $100,000 company to maintain a barge line on the Savannah river between Augusta and the port of Savannah. When a transportation line can be kept open for such a small sum, it is wisdom to do it. As Augusta merchants and manufacturers are the stockholders, they will be sure to furnish the line with enough business to make it an important factor in that city's transportation advantages.

In the current number of the Century Magazine Col. Roosevelt has an attack on the Republican party. He has recently attacked Woodrow Wilson. From now on the Colonel will attack everything and everybody that stands between him and a third term as President. The Colonel has ceased to be a disinterested citizen.

CURRENT COMMENT.

If the railroads have been giving the river towns water rates without water competition it would seem that it is time for the inland towns to be shown some small favors.—Durham Herald.

You have to give it to Craig. He played the man when all that was expected of him was to play the demagogue. Whether he was right or wrong he has his nerve with him.—Rocky Mount Transcript.

The Wilmington Star takes notice of the fact that the first mile of good road in Yadkin county, that State, was built by private subscription. There are miles and miles of good roads in this section of York county which were constructed wholly or in part by private subscription.—Rock Hill Herald.

Why not take steps toward making Lumberton a tobacco market next year? Fairmont reaped a rich harvest during the season that has just closed and will continue to be the leading market in this part of the State, but some tobacco could be sold here and it would help at a time of the year when business is usually dull. Sitting still and envying Fairmont her good luck is not going to mend matters. And incidentally it might be inquired, Why not make Lumberton as good a cotton market as any other town in eastern Carolina? A reputation for giving the farmer a square deal in every possible way does not hurt any town.—Lumberton Robesonian.

Representative Bowie, of Ashe, prefacing his remarks by the statement that he does not ride on a pass—and one would hardly suppose, coming from a railroadless county that this gentleman is in the employ of the railroads—saw in the Clark resolution a piece of demagogy, and said so. He emphatically voiced the opinion that it is no disgrace for a representative to tote a pass, and we should hope not; else would a goodly company of the gentlemen who have assisted in making North Carolina's laws be stigmatized. Nevertheless, Mr. Bowie thought the resolution a reflection upon the members of the body as might chance to hold passes or represent railroads (as well as the people). Be that as it may, the resolution was adopted, directing the Corporation Commission to furnish the House the name of every member of either branch, and other State officials, who have had free passes since the first of the year, and of every member or official who is in the employ of any common carrier as attorney or otherwise, and this information is to be in possession of the House in three days from the day of its adoption.—Greensboro News.

The argument that getting at the facts as to what members of the Legislature are in the employ of the railroads or carry passes is a reflection on somebody won't hold water. A man who at home is an employe of the railroad is not a suitable man to legislate on matters affecting the railroads. It is, however, no reflection on his honesty, or desire to do right, to say so. To so maintain is not at all to imply that he is owned by the railroads, but as Josh Billings used to say, "there is as much human nature in one man as there is in another and sometimes more," and it is simply human nature to be a little partial to the bridge that carries us over safely. As to the matter of carrying passes, the principle is the same, though the bond to the railroads in this respect is not so strong. Still it necessarily has its weight, especially if it is not known who have passes. With this known and habitually borne in mind by observers and critics of legislation, there is that publicity which is one of the safeguards of the people. Public matters should be public, and it is a matter of public concern to know who of the law-makers have even a remote reason or occasion for views biased in favor of the railroads, if there be any such. Representative Clark's resolution calls for publicity in public matters and ought to be accepted by both the House and the Senate.—Raleigh News and Observer.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ORGANIZED

Charter Will be Secured at Once for Wilmington Boosters—Temporary Organization Effected Last Night.

The Wilmington Commercial Club is the name of a new organization which it is proposed to have to help boost the business affairs of Wilmington. A score or more prominent business men of the city met last night in the offices of the Fidelity Trust & Development Company, on Princess street, and effected a temporary organization with Mr. C. E. Greenamyer as president and Mr. S. Sig Zulawsky as secretary. An application for a charter will be made this week, and as soon as it is received a permanent organization will be perfected.

The new club will not in any way take the place of the Chamber of Commerce or any of the other clubs in the city, but will rather augment their work. Its primary object will be to boost the business and commercial interests of Wilmington. To this end it is planned to have a live secretary who may be characterized as a city builder whose special work will be to attract new industries and business enterprises to this city. The membership will be open to all honorable men of every class who are interested in the material development of the city.

While the details of the organization were not worked out at the meeting last night several matters were discussed as to the line of work that the new club is to do. It was the consensus of opinion that such a club is needed, and that the time is ripe for its organization. It was thought best, however, to secure the members first so that they might have a voice in effecting the permanent organization and in working out the details of the proposed club.

The present plan is to make the dues of the club $25 a year for each member, and make it obligatory upon him to become a member for three years when he joins so that there may be no question about it being a permanent affair. Those interested in its organization are confident that 300 members can be secured, and this membership would furnish sufficient money to carry on the work of the club in a highly efficient way.

Every member was appointed a committee of one to solicit members for the club, and they will begin work tomorrow. The application for the charter which was signed last night by all present will not be sent to Raleigh until everyone who wishes to do so can become a charter member.

While the name of Commercial Club was chosen last night as the name of the new club this is also temporary and may be changed later, if the members think best. The main feature of the club will be to boost the business interests of Wilmington by advertising her resources, by showing the many opportunities that exist here, by harmonizing discordant elements and in fact by doing everything possible to exploit the many advantages that Wilmington has in the way of commercial activity.

The greatest enthusiasm was displayed last night at the meeting, and all were confident that such an organization, corresponding in purpose to the Greater Charlotte Club, the Greater Chicago Club and the various clubs to be found in other cities whose object is to boost business, is just what Wilmington needs.

OPEN EARLY NEXT MONTH

Finishing Touches Now Being Put On Wilmington Union Passenger Depot and Office Building for A. C. L.

October 6th is the date set for the official opening of Wilmington's new union passenger station, and office building for the Atlantic Coast Line. The finishing touches are now being made and some of the furniture has already been placed in the offices. It is a handsome structure of seven stories, and one of the best buildings ever erected in the South for railroad purposes, the cost being over $300,000. It is absolutely fireproof, constructed of re-inforced concrete and is equipped with the latest of modern conveniences.

The plans and specifications for the building were made by Mr. J. F. Leitner, the well known architect of this city, who has had charge of the construction of many public buildings throughout the South. The contract for its erection was given to the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co., of Washington, D. C. It was expected to have had it completed by June 15th, but delay was experienced in getting material on account of several strikes and other difficulties.

An immense passenger concourse has been erected in the rear of the building by which those going to and fro from the trains to the station can do so without being exposed to he open. This is built of mass concrete. Baggage will be received and delivered from the rear of the building on Red Cross street, and will be carried to the trains in a separate division of the viaduct from the passenger concourse.

The waiting rooms for white people are entered from Front street while the colored passengers will enter the station from Red Cross street. The entrance to the general offices of the Atlantic Coast Line is at the intersection of Front and Red Cross streets. The waiting rooms are furnished with Oriental marble and hardwood seats. All the floors are of Terrazza.

Suitable rooms have been provided to be used by the ladies for resting, and by the gentlemen for smoking. Porte-cocheres are provided for each entrance to the waiting rooms. Nothing has been left undone to provide for the comfort and the convenience in every way of patrons.

The building is equipped with plunger elevators, vacuum cleaners, adjustable windows, steam heat, mail chutes, spiral fire escapes, and, in fact, with everything that goes to make it a modern, up-to-date station and office building. There is indirect electric lighting in all the offices and waiting rooms which is the nearest thing to natural sunlight that has yet been devised.

The opening of the new station will be most gratifying to the people of Wilmington and the thousands who travel in and out of Wilmington. It furnishes an appropriate entrance to a city of Wilmington's size, and should mean much as an impetus to business enterprises of all kinds. With such buildings for a background there will no doubt within the near future be other structures of similar artistic beauty, and substantial workmanship erected in the city.

The people here feel that they are to be congratulated for having had such a beautiful and well-arranged union station erected in their midst. The traveling public will receive the news gladly for it means much for their comfort to have a place to wait for trains which is comfortable and restful in its surroundings.

DAMAGES ARE SOUGHT.

Bowers Southern Dredging Co., Sued for Death of Employe.

Suit was instituted in Superior Court here yesterday by Robt. W. Strange, administrator of the estate of Oscar Emile Bjork, against the Bowers Southern Dredging Company, which has a dredge engaged on the Cape Fear river improvement below Wilmington. Bjork, who was a Swedish subject, lost his life last March while at work on the dredge of the defendant company. He was mending a leak on a pipe line when he was washed overboard and drowned. It will be alleged, it is understood, that the accident was caused by the failure of the company to have a hand rail over the pipe line at this point. Bjork was about 24 years old and damages in the sum of $2,000 or $3,000 will be asked, it is stated. Louis J. Poisson, Esq., represents the plaintiff. Mr. Poisson was engaged through the Swedish consul at New York, who is acting in behalf of the young man's relatives in Sweden.

Careless Shooting of Rifle.

Mr. F. H. McCulloch, the capable secretary and treasurer of the Carolina Metal Products Co., was sitting in the office, corner Sixth and Martin streets, Friday afternoon, signing up his mail preparatory to leaving for the day, when crash! bang! came a terrific smashing of glass just over his head. Several pieces of the broken window pane were implanted in his cheek, and for a second he wondered if there hadn't been an earthquake. Investigation, however, revealed the fact that three small boys about 200 yards away had tried their hand shooting a small rifle, and that it was a bullet from this weapon that had crashed through the window.

The Recorder's Court.

The Recorder yesterday had another case where a negro was charged with assaulting his wife, but she had repented over night of the charge she had made, and on her evidence he was acquitted. His name was given as Lorenzo Green. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs in a case against Willie Shepard, colored, charged with exceeding the speed limit while running an automobile. A nol pros with leave was taken in a case against Mr. D. T. Miller, charged with running an automobile at night without a rear light.

Service for Deaf Mutes.

Rev. Oliver J. Whilden, missionary to the deaf mutes, will be in Wilmington Monday, and will conduct services at 8 P. M. in St. John's Parish House, Third and Red Cross streets, for the deaf mutes. These services are usually read by a local minister for the benefit of those who can hear, and at the same time given by Mr. Whilden in the sign language for the benefit of those who cannot hear. All are, therefore, invited to this service, and a special invitation is given the deaf mutes of the city.

CORN SHOW IN NOVEMBER

Will be Held in Connection With Sorosis Industrial Arts Exhibit in November—Prizes Will be Given.

It was definitely decided yesterday to have a corn show here in November in connection with the Industrial Arts Exhibit which North Carolina Sorosis will have at that time. Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, and Messrs. L. B. Sasser and Geo. H. Hutaff have had the matter under consideration for some time and after conferring with the ladies of the Sorosis yesterday they came to the conclusion that it was best to make the corn exhibit a part of the Sorosis fair.

No definite particulars were decided upon, but these will be worked out at a meeting to be held Tuesday afternoon. It is expected, however, to have other exhibits besides corn, such as potatoes, pumpkins and other Fall products. For these suitable prizes will be given to those furnishing the best exhibits. Each competitor in the corn contest will be expected to enter six ears of corn in the corn exhibit. Judges will grade the corn, and those grading highest will receive suitable prizes.

The industrial exhibits which the Sorosis will have will last through a period of three days or more. One day will be known as Boys' Corn Club Day, and will be devoted especially to the corn and agricultural features. A dinner will be given the boys by citizens of Wilmington, and there will be several prominent speakers who will address them on the subject of better corn. Representatives from the State Department of Agriculture will attend and take part in the exercises.

At this time the prizes which were offered last Spring for the best corn yields will be awarded. These amount to over $300, and apply to the three counties of New Hanover, Brunswick and Pender. All those who have entered the contest from these counties will be invited to attend the exhibit and also be present at the dinner. In New Hanover there are 22 boys and 30 men who are competing for the prizes; in Pender there are 35 boys and in Brunswick a half dozen or more.

Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, deserves much praise for the splendid work that he has done in the promotion of better corn growing for New Hanover. To him is due much of the credit for the fine success of the corn growing contests and the good results that have been obtained from the organization of the Boys' Corn Clubs.

Mr. Herring has decided to inaugurate a new feature for the Boys' Corn Clubs which he believes will be of great value to the people in showing them what can be done in the way of improving land. His idea is to offer prizes next year for the best corn production on a single acre of unimproved land, and then allow this acre to be planted in cover crops the following year for which, of course, there would be no prizes offered. Then in 1916 larger prizes will be given for the best yields from these same plots which have been improved. This will furnish interesting comparative figures which would show as nothing else could the benefits to be derived from the planting of cover crops on land.

Mr. Herring states that those boys who expect to compete for these prizes should lay off their acre of land now, and sow it in rye. Then next Spring it should be plowed under, and a limited amount of fertilizer, the exact amount to be used to be announced later, put on the land and the corn planted. Next Fall suitable prizes will be given for the best yields. At that time the same acre should be sowed in clover, vetch or some other crop which will be allowed to grow through the Winter, and plowed under the following Spring. Another cover crop should then be planted which will be plowed under in the Fall to be followed by another cover crop. In the Spring of 1916 this will be plowed under, and another crop of corn planted.

Only boys between the ages of 10 and 15 years should begin making preparations now as those who in 1916 are over 18 years of age will not be allowed to compete for prizes.

This will be only one feature of the prizes which will be awarded next year, the regular prizes being given as usual.

Funeral of Young Son.

The funeral of Robert French Taylor, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan Taylor, whose death occurred Friday night after a month's illness of typhoid fever, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the family residence, No. 14 North Seventh street. Interment will be in Oakdale cemetery. Hundreds of friends throughout this city and section learned yesterday with infinite sorrow of the death of the young man and the sympathy of all go out to the grief-stricken parents. Many friends called at the saddened home yesterday to offer their condolences to the members of the sorely bereaved family.

Suit Started Yesterday.

Suit was brought in Superior Court yesterday by Ben Dreight against A. Y. Bond, trading as A. Y. Bond & Co., of Greensboro, for the recovery of alleged damages for an accident that befell the plaintiff while working for the defendant on the new union station here a few weeks ago. It is alleged that the plaintiff's hand was painfully burned. Complaint has not yet been filed, but damages in the sum of $500 or $1,000 will likely be asked. Kellum & Loughlin represent the plaintiff.

Lecture This Evening.

At the Grand Theatre this evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. J. P. MacPherson, of New York, will deliver a lecture on the subject, "Victory O'er the Grave," this being the third in the series arranged for Wilmington by the International Bible Students' Association. Mr. MacPherson comes to Wilmington as a preacher of great power and eloquence. The public is cordially invited to hear him. No collection will be taken.

Drunk Man Falls Into River.

Charles Byrum, a white man, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Water and Market streets, charged with being drunk. It is stated that he had imbibed so freely that he lost his balance and fell into the river, and would probably have drowned had there not been several persons near to rescue him. He was taken to the police station to sober up.

Own your own home. We will help you. Subscribe NOW to the Third Series of Stock. Orton Building & Loan Association, which opens Saturday, October 4th, at the office of James & James, Orton Hotel Building. Thos. E. Cooper, president; Wm. G. James, secretary and treasurer. (advertisement.)

CHAMBER MEETS TOMORROW

Special Meeting Called for the Purpose of Hearing Report of Committee on Freight Rate Situation.

The Chamber of Commerce is called in special session tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for the purpose of hearing the report of the freight traffic committee on the freight rate situation. The report will be made by Mr. J. G. McCormick, who was acting chairman of the committee that went to Raleigh early in the week to appear at the conference held relative to the latest proposal of the railroads for adjustment of inter-State rates.

Notices of the meeting were sent out yesterday afternoon by the secretary of the organization. All citizens of the city, whether members of the Chamber or not who are interested in the fight for just and equitable freight rates are cordially invited to attend and take part in the meeting. Freight rates are something that interest every one from the consumer to the manufacturer as it affects all to more or less degree and for that reason and for the further reason that the consideration of the question has just about reached a critical stage in the State, it is expected that the meeting tomorrow will be one of the largest attended ever held by the organization. Every phase of the freight rate question will likely be touched upon in course of the discussion, following the report of the committee. The Chamber will probably determine at this meeting what action will be taken by it in the event the latest proposal of the railroads, which is not satisfactory to the Chamber, is accepted by the Legislature. It is very likely that the Chamber of Commerce will continue the fight to the Inter-State Commerce Commission if the adjustment affected by the Legislature is not satisfactory to Wilmington.

Whether any other questions will be taken up at the meeting will depend upon the decision of the members after they get there. As the call only states that the freight rate question will be considered it will require a vote before any other matters may be brought up, it was stated yesterday by an officer of the organization. There are several committees to report on other matters, but it was not indicated yesterday that they are ready to make report, otherwise reference to consideration of these matters would have been included in the call.

MR. WINE GOES TO TOLEDO.

Will Assume Duties as President of Wine Railway Appliance Co.

Mr. William E. Wine, chief draughtsman for the Atlantic Coast Line, has resigned his position to accept the presidency of the Wine Railway Appliance Co., of Toledo, Ohio, a corporation organized in May, 1912, for the manufacture of several patented devices invented by Mr. Wine. Mr. Wine's resignation is effective October 1st, and he will leave Saturday night to assume his new duties.

Mr. Wine is the inventor of a number of devices for use on locomotive cars and shop machinery, among them being a steel ladder, a metal ventilating shutter, socket washer, roller side bearing, roth center bearing, locomotive ash pan, a triple valve grinding machine and an automatic train stop. The company of which he becomes president was organized for the exclusive purpose of manufacturing these various inventions which are being used extensively on many railroads of the country.

Mr. Wine became a draughtsman for the Coast Line in October, 1906. He was for two years resident engineer on shop improvements at Rocky Mount. In October of last year, he became chief draughtsman for the Coast Line. He has proved himself to be an expert in his line, and has made the railroad a most useful man. He is a man of pleasing personality, and has many friends who regret to see him leave Wilmington but will wish for him the greatest success in his new field.

Mrs. Wine and two daughters expect to remain in Wilmington for the Winter and will join Mr. Wine next Spring, in Toledo, where they will make their future home.

DEATH OF MRS. KENDALL.

Passed Away Yesterday Morning at Home in Cheraw—Funeral Today.

Many friends in the city will learn with sorrow of the death of Mrs. Bessie Kendall, wife of Mr. J. C. Kendall, at her home in Cheraw, S. C., yesterday morning at 1:30 o'clock, after several years of failing health. The body, accompanied by Mr. Kendall, was brought to the city last night, and taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. E. H. Bowdoin, No. 617 Red Cross street. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from Fifth Street Methodist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. T. Adams. The interment will be in Bellevue cemetery. Mrs. Kendall formerly resided here until two years ago when she and her husband removed to Cheraw. Surviving her besides her husband is one sister, Mrs. E. H. Bowdoin, of this city. They have many friends who will sympathize tenderly with them in their grief.

QUICK TRIP FROM LIVERPOOL.

Mrs. H. G. Jones Reached Wilmington Yesterday After Speedy Voyage.

Mr. H. G. Jones arrived from New York City yesterday where he went to meet his wife who came across from Liverpool, England, on the steamship Mauretania. Mrs. Jones left Liverpool a week ago yesterday at mid-day, and arrived in Wilmington yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, having made the whole trip in less than seven days, and included in that time was nearly a day spent in New York City. Mr. Jones has been here for some time, and is connected with the statistical bureau of the Atlantic Coast Line. He has decided to make Wilmington his permanent home. He is a brother of Mr. C. H. Jones, No. 812 Grace street, who is with Maffitt & Wood, in charge of their grocery department in their new five-story building on Water and Princess streets.

Dr. Armstrong at Rocky Point.

Rev. T. J. Armstrong, a graduate of Yale and a very able preacher, will conduct services in the Methodist church at Rocky Point this morning at 11 o'clock.

It will be of much interest to automobile owners to know that on and after October the 1st, Mr. I. S. King will handle the charging and upkeep of electric automobiles, storage batteries and other automobile electrical appliances, at the Pickard-Bleecker Auto. Company's garage. MARRIAGE IN PENNSY OF INTEREST LOCALLY.

Friends in this city and section will be interested in the following marriage announcement from Thursday afternoon's Daily Leader of Kittanning, Pa.:

"Red Bank, Sept. 24.—This afternoon at 4:30 the marriage of Miss Nannie Mable Logue, of Red Bank, and T. Thurman Murphy, of Atkinson, N. C., took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Logue, in Red Bank, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Taylor, the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Kittanning. Fall foliage to form a color scheme of green and white was used extensively in the decorations. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of shaded lace over pink messaline, trimmed with rose buds. She carried a bouquet of roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was Miss Ruth Karns, of Franklin, Pa., who wore pink and carried pink flowers. George W. Logue, a brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Emily McIlhaney and Miss Helen McIlhaney, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McIlhaney and nieces of the bride, were flower girls. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding reception and dinner were given at which seventy-five relatives and friends were guests. At the bride's table covers were laid for twelve. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy leave today in an extended wedding trip to Philadelphia, Pa., Atlantic City, N. J., Washington, D. C., Norfolk, Va., and other points of interest in the East and after October 15th will be at home to their friends in Atkinson, North Carolina."

Giants Were Victors.

The Giants defeated Wrightsboro yesterday on Burnett's diamond 5 to 4 in an exciting game. Seitter and Rason for Wrightsboro, and Mintz and Lewis, for the Giants, were the batteries. Wilmington Juniors, by failing to appear, forfeited a double-header to the Immanuels. Saturday the Giants play Wrightsboro, the winning team to play Immanuel for the Independent League championship.

SOROSIS CORNER.

The Better Babies Contest which Sorosis will hold in November in connected with Fine Arts Exhibit has created much interest, and the president of Sorosis has received many inquiries about it. A contest of this kind was recently held in Greensboro and was a great success from every standpoint. The contests are being held in many of the leading cities all over the country and wherever given never fail to create the greatest enthusiasm. A Better Babies Contest will be given in connection with the State Fair at Raleigh in October, and over $300 in prizes have been offered for the best babies.

While the contest to be given in Wilmington in November will not be on so extensive a scale as the contest at the State Fair it will be well worth while. It will not be a beauty show but a health contest out and out. Neither grand fathers nor grand mothers will be allowed to kiss babies' cheeks or vote for the prettiest child. There will be several doctors and others on hand to score the babies on score cards in much the same way that the horsemen and cattle judges score horses and cattle.

The baby's age will be noted, then he will be weighed, measured and carefully examined in every way, and above everything else the doctors will point out to the parents just what it takes to make a perfect baby, and wherein theirs falls short of being one, if he should not be.

Then there will be prizes, a beautiful gold medal, for the best baby and other special prizes. The first prize is furnished by the Woman's Home Companion. The others will be given by persons from the city and county. There will be classes for rural babies and city babies, and these classes will also be arranged according to ages, say from six months to 24 months, and from 24 months to 36 months. Then there will be classes for girls and for boys. There will be sweepstakes and special prizes for the best boy and the best girl of each class.

Those interested in this splendid exhibition which will be given in November should communicate with the president of Sorosis who will be glad to furnish full particulars.

BILLS WERE LOST.

Law Enforcement Measures Fail to Get by Tennessee Legislature.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 27.—The turbulent extra session of the Tennessee General Assembly adjourned tonight with three so-called law enforcement bills still on the calendar of the House. These bills designed to make less difficult the enforcement of liquor laws were the subject of stormy debate, and by a filibuster conducted by "regular" Democrats, were prevented from coming to a vote in the House after they had been passed by the Senate.

Both House and Senate passed a bill providing for the substitution of the electric chair for the gallows.

Governor Hooper today sent a message to the House indicating his inclination to call another extra session for consideration of "law enforcement" bills alone.

In contrast for the scenes on the floor of the House at the first of the week, when charges of the presence of gunmen threatened a riot, tonight's session was marked by jocular speechmaking and singing.

St. John's Sunday School.

The Sunday School of St. John's Episcopal church will meet in the Parish House, Third and Red Cross streets, today, for organization. All teachers and pupils are expected to be in their places promptly at 4 P. M. A full attendance is required.

WITH THE MOVIES.

Grand's Superb Galaxy.

With a superb galaxy of four films the Grand will inaugurate tomorrow what it expects to be one of its biggest of all weeks artistically and hopes to be financially. The latest Edison sensation in the way of a dramatic far out of the ordinary will lead the film bill. It will be "The Grecian Vase," which tells of the struggles of a sculptor, of an unusual accident, attended by misfortune at the time, but out of disaster there came success in a peculiar way. There is another big dramatic on tomorrow's bill in Lubin's "The Reformed Outlaw," which is also something out of the beaten path. Pathe's "Strange Traits of Serpents" will be one of the most interesting, as well as highly entertaining films ever presented at the cozy, handsome theatre, while in "Auto Polo, the New Thriller," will be found something that will tingle the blood and inform the mind. So it can be seen that tomorrow's show at the Grand is going to be something very exceptional and the price only 5 cents, afternoon and night.

Monday at the Bijou.

The Bijou will start off the new week tomorrow in a blaze of fun. It has prepared a great laughfest and wants all of its friends to be on hand to take delightful part in the tremendous chuckles that will be served up. The greatest of smile films, fresh off the bat, will be presented, headed by Pathe's "Fickle Fortune's Favor," which is a fascinating novelty, as well as a howl for laughs. It tells of a tramp, who, with a restaurant man, chases a dollar bill, that is being blown along by the wind. The chase takes the pair to Coney Island and among the various novel and startling amusement devices found there. "The Rag Bag" is Lubin's mirth-provoker, telling how one hobo conceals himself in a bag and is sold by his companion to a junk dealer as old rags. One hobo gets "tanked," while the other gets kicked around. Then there is a unique Ethiopian comedy on in "Smashing Time," in which is presented, as a finale, a "Rough House" at a colored ball. The Bijou still holds on to the small price of admission, 5 cents.

HEARING ON RIVER WORK.

Question of Improving Northeast Branch of Cape Fear.

Announcement is made by Maj. H. W. Stickle, United States Engineer in charge of this district, that a hearing will be held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce in this city on October 17th, at 2 P. M. in connection with the proposed improvement of the Northeast branch of the Cape Fear river for a distance of about three miles above the Hilton bridge, which has been urged by the several factories located on the stream above Hilton.

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, through a committee of its members, will hold the hearing. Major Stickle states that at that time the board will be glad to receive any statements or arguments bearing upon the necessity and propriety of the United States entering upon this work. The board would also like to have the views of interested persons regarding local co-operation. While oral statements will be received, statistical data intended for record should be submitted in writing.

It is announced that the public is cordially invited to attend this hearing, and interested parties are requested to have in shape for consideration by the board such facts and arguments concerning the proposed improvement as they may desire to present.

Run Over by Train.

Frank Small, colored, was run over by a freight train early yesterday at Newberlin, his left leg being cut off and his right leg mangled so that it will have to be amputated. He was brought to the James Walker Memorial Hospital and early this morning was still living. It is stated that although he was warned, Small deliberately started to walk across the track in front of the shifting locomotive.

Wright SELLS LOTS

Real Estate is again quite active. We are "selling lots"—with and without houses on them. So if you have a piece of property for sale, give us a description and a fair price—we will turn it into cash for you.

There are several desirable places now on our list—particularly, a splendid dwelling on South Front street, north of Church street. Consider this location—no better in city. Let us tell you of it and quote price and terms.

Visit Winoca Terrace—it's in easy walking distance and on the car line. Without the slightest fear of successful contradiction we confidently assert that the present price on Winoca lots is lower than any other lots in the city, location and neighbors considered. Buy now at first cost price and on easy terms. Six houses are being finished and will be occupied within a week or two. Several more will be built—or started—this Fall.

The number of lots is limited and the prices will rise. Investigate now.

We have a bargain in a lot for $300 payable ten dollars a month. The monthly payments you will not feel—and we will buy it back from you if not satisfied, at any time, during the next twelve months, at a profit of six per cent. to you. It will increase 25 per cent. Ask about this Monday.

Remember, if you want to turn your real estate into money—we can do it; and if you want to put your money into the one safe, absolutely sure investment, Wilmington Real Estate, we will find you a good paying proposition.

SOCIALISTS IN SEATTLE.

Defy Judge's Order and Offer Themselves for Arrest.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 27.—An additional list of 180 signers of a paper declaring intention to violate Superior Judge John E. Humphries' order against street speaking, if he convicted certain orators summoned to his court on contempt charges, was mailed to Judge Humphries. H. E. Foster, special prosecutor appointed by the court to handle cases against 100 Socialists already ordered under arrest, said the new defiance would be ignored.

At a Socialist mass meeting last Sunday night, it was announced that 500 men and women would volunteer for arrest. It was said if convicted they would refuse to pay fines and would serve their terms of imprisonment. Judge Humphries said today he would order the property of convicted prisoners levied on to pay the fines.

Among the defendants who gave bail is Thomas Russell, president of the United Mine Workers of America for District No. 10, covering all the Pacific Northwest. Socialists say the headquarters of the party will be removed from Everett to Seattle so that union officials may direct the contest with Judge Humphries.

Forty-one persons now are in jail because of signing the resolution.

"Four deputy sheriffs are now here to take you to jail," announced an orator at a Socialist mass meeting last night. "Any who signed the resolution may come forward and be arrested. Those who desire may wait until tomorrow."

Several responded to the invitation and were followed to jail by so large a crowd that the deputies became confused.

"Those who were arrested please step inside," said one of the officers finally, and nine persons went in and were locked up.

They have moved their office from the Garrell building where they have been for several years. A temporary office has been erected on the lot, and they can now be found at their new location.

"The Deep Purple" Yesterday.

"The Deep Purple", a melodrama of a rather sensational type, was played to small audiences at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon and last night. It was a good show and the audience appeared to be pleased. It contained several exciting scenes, but the play, as a whole, was quiet and dignified. The company was a capable one and the members did their parts well. The staging of the play was excellent.

Organ Motor Installed.

The work of installing the motor for the organ at the First Baptist church has been completed and it will be used this morning for the first time. Heretofore it has been necessary to have a pump boy. The motor that has just been installed is of the finest make. Mr. L. Y. Styne, a skilled organ builder, did the work.

St. Louis, Sept. 27.—The Federal grand jury here today returned an indictment charging Thomas H. Smart, and 11 of his agents with wholesale frauds in the sale of New Jersey town lots. COTTON GOES STILL HIGHER

Renewal of Bullish Excitement in Market Yesterday, December Touching 312 Points Above Level Last Month.

New York, Sept. 27.—There was a renewal of bullish excitement in the cotton market today and new high records were established on all positions with October contracts selling as high as 14.10, while December touched 13.95, or 312 points above the low level of only a little more than a month ago.

Expectations of a very bullish October Bureau report were strengthened by the report of a Chicago authority placing the condition of the crop at 61.8 comparing with its report of 69.4 last month. The official condition a month ago was 68.2, and should the government's figures next Thursday show as big a falling off as indicated by today's private statement, it would make the October condition around 61 per cent, or the lowest in ten years with the exception of 1909, when the October bureau report was 59.5 per cent.

The yield of lint cotton per acre in 1909 was only 154.3 pounds comparing with a ten-year average of 186.5 pounds, last year's yield of 190.9 pounds, and the out-turn of 207.7 pounds per acre in 1911. Bullish sentiment also seemed to be encouraged by reports of a heavy rain storm working northwestward from Houston, the official forecasts for continued unsettled conditions, bullish weekly reviews of the dry goods trade and the continued steadiness of the Liverpool cables.

Realizing was very heavy during the entire day, but the market closed within 4 or 5 points of the best, and from 11 to 17 points net higher. At the opening there seemed to be some selling for a reaction after yesterday's big advance, as well as profit taking by old longs and after starting at an advance of three points to a decline of five points the market sold 7 to 8 points net lower during the early trading.

Offerings were very readily taken, however, by a broadening outside demand, continued trade buying and support from some of the local bull houses and prices soon firmed up, reaching a net advance of 16 to 22 points in the late trading.

Temperatures in the South were not as low as expected, but the continued wet weather was reported to be damaging open cotton. After the close, the trade here became alarmed over Washington advices concerning the Underwood substitute for the Clarke amendment, and there were private sales of January, 10 or 12 points below the final official figures.

Spot cotton, steady, 20 points up. Middling uplands, 14.30; middling gulf, 14.55; sales, 100 bales.

Futures closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS REVIEW.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—The price of cotton went to new high levels for the year this week, several options crossing the 14-cent mark. Values were the highest in several years. The market closed for the week at a net gain of 25 to 35 points.

The high prices were made Saturday and the low prices Monday. At the highest the trading months were 57 to 60 points over last week's close, at the lowest they were 12 to 15 points under. The range was 70 to 74 points. The close would have been higher but for a sensational break right on the week-end on unfavorable rumors from Washington regarding legislation.

The chief reason for the advance was the growing conviction that this crop, at its best, can be only of moderate size.

Bulls claimed that much crop damage was done during the week.

Posting of the weekly statstics was followed by increased buying as they pointed to a demand for cotton that appeared to be out of proportion to the supply, or at least the supply claimed by the bulls. Exports for the season were put by Secretary Hester at 653,671 bales against 456,903 bales a year ago, and 624,039 two years ago. Bulls called attention to the fact that exports two years ago were the largest on record to that date.

In the spot department prices gained nine-sixteenths of a cent, middling closing at 13 7-8 against 13 5-16 last week, and 11 7-16 this week last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 4,025 bales against 4,282 last week, and 2,715 this week last year; sales to arrive amounted to 5,374 bales against 3,211 last week and 8,010 this week last year.

The Italian government makes an annual appropriation of $30,000 for the maintenance of a botanical garden at Eala, in the Congo.

STOCKS LITTLE ALTERED

Reading and Union Pacific Made Little Gains But Rest of List Stationary With Small Decline —Trading Light.

New York, Sept. 27.—With the exception of Reading and Union Pacific, each of which made gains of about a point, the stock market closed today with prices of the active stocks little altered. Trading was light. The market declined at the opening, which afforded an opportunity for week-end covering. Early losses were made up in most cases, though another dip downward toward the close resulted in small net declines.

Strength of Reading and Union Pacific exerted little influence elsewhere, bullish operations being productive of no market gossip, other than reiterated rumors of segregating plans. Union Pacific rose to the highest quotation of the present movement.

The bank statement made a disappointing showing. Instead of the expected gain in cash of $8,000,000 the increase only was $2,250,000. There was an actual loan expansion of about $8,000,000 and the surplus changed little. Germany's needs at the quarterly settlement period were emphasized by the appearance of Berlin in this market as a bidder for funds. For loans to carry over the settlement period, six and one-half per cent. was offered but so far as could be ascertained New York bankers have declined to accept these terms.

Bonds ruled steady. Total sales par value $800,000. United States 2s declined 3-4, the 4s coupon 1-4 and Panama 2s a point on call on the week. Total sales were 13,000, including American Tobacco, 100; C. & O., 300; Lehigh, 300; Reading, 31,800; S. A. L. preferred, 200; T. C., 700; U. P., 33,300.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, Sept. 27.—Uncertainty over the outlook for business was believed to be the principal cause of the halting tendency of stock prices during the week. The easing of the money market, in spite of seasonable demands, left no obstacle from that cause to the use of funds in the stock market.

Opinions over trade prospects are conflicting. Mercantile and commercial circles express confidence. That tone is perceptible also in the great textile centers. The iron and steel trade and railroad traffic officials are not so confident. Corn-carrying railroads are estimating probable losses of traffic by reason of damage to that crop.

An increase of $288,000,000 in the operating income of steam railroads is shown in the report compiled by the Inter-State Commerce Commission for the fiscal year ended June 30th. Such a growth, even with a parallel increase in expenses, which leaves but $85,000,000 for the increase in net earnings, does not bear out a plea of poverty, or of oppression of the railroads. It was a similar increase that was made the principal grounds for the refusal by the Inter-State Commerce Commission of the petition of the railroads for general increases in freight rates three years ago.

The domestic money market was benefitted decidedly by the treasury deposits with National banks in the South and West. Part of these funds were transmitted directly to New York. The approach of the October settlements hardened discount rates abroad but confidence was maintained that ease would follow the settlements and possibly gold imports to New York. Discontent in the Balkans also disturbed foreign markets.

Young men can't afford to dress in any but the best style; and the best style is something that only the most expert designers can produce; style in clothes is an art, not simply a word. It's the real art of style in them that makes Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes so much preferred. You'll find that no made-to-measure garments, whatever you pay for them, will give you the lasting satisfaction that's to be had in these goods.

It is such clothing as this of Hart Schaffner & Marx that makes made-to-order clothes unnecessary; they're better than most made-to-order in every way; in fabrics, tailoring, style, fit. You'll see it for yourself here.

H. W. Miller, assistant to the president of the Southern Railway, representing the inter-State carriers here, the formal inquiry in compliance with the resolution adopted yesterday by the House, as to just when the reduced inter-State rate will be put in effect, in the event the proposal of the carriers for settlement is adopted, and making inquiry as to alleged ambiguities in the proposal, and make it clear that the State is left free to exercise its power as to any other rates not included in the agreement, or refrain from doing anything else that it may deem wise and proper.

Mr. Justice expects a reply from the carriers by Monday and then the legislative wheels will begin to grind definitely as to freight rate legislation and matters pertaining thereto.

Apply Minnesota Scale Here.

It develops that Representative Justice is preparing a bill designed to apply the Minnesota scale of intra-State rates in North Carolina with a view to getting sweeping reductions in intra-State rates. He has held a conference with a number of the members of the House Committee on Public Service Corporations and President Tate of the Just Freight Rate Association, and Rate Expert Hillman, and others, at which he submitted his tentative bill. It is understood that the measure was approved by all in the conference and the expectation is that the bill will be introduced in the House at an early date.

tin, Texas, for the release of Col. Braulio Hernandez, a Mexican Revolutionist detained by the American army at El Paso, will test the power of the Federal government under the international law to imprison combatants crossing the frontier. The Departments of State, Justice and War contend that under international law the Federal government inherently has the right.

Fired on U. S. Cavalry.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 27.—A detachment of United States troops, Second Cavalry, was fired on late this afternoon by Mexican Federal cavalrymen. The Americans were on duty patrolling the international border about 15 miles east of El Paso.

None of the Americans was wounded. Two Texas rangers who were nearby also were fired at by the Mexicans.

United States army officers tonight said their soldiers did not return the fire, although there were about 40 shots fired at them.

H. L. Rhodes, who was near the scene when the Mexicans began shooting, said the American troopers did return the fire and drove the Mexicans to cover. It is not known if any Mexicans were injured.

The American troops were at a patrol station on the border about two miles east of San Elizario, when 30 Mexican cavalrymen appeared on the Mexican side. The Mexicans were about 200 yards from the troopers when the shooting began.

The United States troop authorities at Clint, Texas, were notified soon after the shooting and went to San Elizario to conduct an investigation. At Juarez the Federal authorities also are investigating the shooting.

The Mexican troopers who fired at the Americans comprised a scouting party sent east from Juarez this morn-Late tonight the troops had not returned to their barracks at Juarez.

The border patrol in the vicinity of San Elizario has been doubled tonight.

Carranza Comes Back.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 27.—"I do declare that whoever proclaims himself President of Mexico, as the result of elections Huerta promises in October, will be considered a traitor to his country. If he falls into our hands, he will be tried under the law of January 25th, 1862, and the same treatment will be accorded to all who recognize him as President."

This declaration formed a part of a long message received here today from Governor Venustiano Carranza, Constitutional leader at Hermosillo. The law to which Carranza refers was that enacted by Benito Juarez. It provides that all traitors may be summarily executed without trial. Under it Maxamillian was put to death.

In his message Carranza announced that he had just received visits from representatives of Constitutionalist leaders in Coahuila, Durango, Zacatecas, Chihuahua, Sinaloa, Sonora and other States and all were in accordance with his declaration.

"Our aim," continued the massage, "is to exterminate Huerta and his entire following of traitors and assassins. Peace in Mexico is impossible until one party or the other has been exterminated."

Federal Troops Moving.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 27.—Three hundred Federal troops are reported to have left Chihuahua to attack Agua Prieta, Sonora, which is garrisoned by Sonora rebel troops. Rebel commanders in Sonora have sent 200 rebel reinforcements to Agua Prieta to withstand the Federal attack.

Yorktown Has Eventful Trip.

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—The gunboat Yorktown has returned to San Francisco after an eventful trip to Central American and Mexican ports, short 30 members of its marine corps and crew that deserted at various points.

Having gained the distinction of being the first warship to enter the Pan-American Canal, the Yorktown proceeded up the coast to Topolobampo to relieve the gunboat Buffalo and was present during three days' fighting there between the Mexican Federal troops and the rebels.

John J. Murphy, a fireman of the Yorktown, was shot through the arm by a stray bullet when the Mexican gunboat Tampico was bombarding the city.

A party of midshipmen from the Yorktown chanced to fall in with the rebel rear guard and were forced to remain with the attacking force over night. Walking into the city the next day under a flag of truce, the midshipmen fell in with a party of Federals and were fired upon by the rebels.

because new evidence, of which they had no knowledge before the trial began, is being introduced. One feature of the defense will be that most of the unlisted contributions were given the Governor for his personal use.

Garrison Still in Limbo.

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 27.—James C. Garrison, friend of Governor Sulzer and former State employe, who made charges against certain Assemblymen, then declined to testify regarding them before the Assembly, must remain in the Albany penitentiary until the Assembly managers see fit to release him, or this session of the legislature expires.

Supreme Court Justice Cochrane, sitting on the case of Garrison's application for a writ of habeas corpus, so decided this afternoon.

ROOSEVELT IN NEW YORK.

Pays His Respects to Tammany at Progressive Meeting.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 27.—In an address before the State Committee of the National Progressive party here today, Col. Theodore Roosevelt declared that in the election in New York State this Fall, the "dominant concern of the people should be to prevent Tammany from obtaining complete control of the State," and that "to this the lesser issues must give way."

He argued that the "predicament in which the State finds its public affairs is due to the failure of the people to elect last Fall a Governor and Legislature pledged to the carrying out of Progressive policies. In voting against Tammany candidates, however, Colonel Roosevelt urged the voters to support the Progressive party candidates to the end that they might "defeat Tammany without enthroning the Barnes Republican machine in its place."

"At this moment that which contains the most of menace to all our State is Tammany Hall," said Colonel Roosevelt. "We battle against Tammany Hall in the Governorship fight because Tammany Hall is attacking the Governor not for what he may have done before election but because since election he has stood for honesty and the rights of the people. I wish to call the attention of the 'conservatives" who have professed such horror of the Progressive doctrine of the popular recall to just what has been done by Tammany in the absence of the popular recall. I ask you to consider whether you prefer the recall exercised by the people themselves at the polls, or the recall exercised by Mr. Murphy at the end of a telephone.

"I am not discussing the merits of the charges, nor the evidence against Governor Sulzer. All the matters now produced before the impeachment court were well known to the leaders of Tammany Hall at the time they were calling Governor Sulzer another Andrew Jackson. They remained silent about them until the Governor refused to take his orders."

You are cordially invited to attend our first display of hats, leather goods, gloves, belts and neckwear, Wednesday, October 1st. French Millinery Parlors. (advertisement 2t

PRESIDENT FEW'S ADDRESS

Head of Trinity College Discusses "Truth in Opening Talk to Students—Truth Distinguished From Mere Fact.

Durham N. C., Sept.27.—Dr. William Preston Few delivered the annual president's opening address to the students of Trinity College Sunday night in Craven Memorial Hall. Music appropriate to the occasion was furnished by a choir of the select voices of the city church choirs.

The subject of Dr. Few's address was "Truth:" and he showed how the people of the present generation spend their time and energies seeking out the details of knowledge and truth and in so doing oftentimes fail to find truth itself. The majority of the people of all ages have confused fact and truth; have mistaken the former for the latter, and as the result, have missed all the underlying principles of universal truth.

He declared that the pursuit of universal truth should be the preponderant purpose of all the colleges of the country, and that whenever an institution permitted some ulterior force to enter into and predominate student activities, that institution lost all claim to title as a place of education. For, an institution is like a human being in a sense, and when it becomes corrupt in one sense, it becomes corrupt as a whole. He especially protested against the growing tendency to encourage athletic activities to such a degree as to take precedence over the pursuit of knowledge in the colleges of the country, and he declared that those institutions of this State that send out scouts, on the lookout for promising athletic material in preparatory schools and even in other colleges, using money to induce athletes to these particular colleges, can no longer be justly called ideal institutions of learning.

Dr. Few declared that what he said in regard to unclean athletics and the hiring of athletes in the colleges of this State was merely a note of warning, and he promised that he shall be heard from throughout the State in regard to this present evil before the year is gone.

Following is a synopsis of his address:

"A half century ago, Matthew Arnold, one of the greatest poets of his age in England, abandoned poetry, saying that the age had fallen upon a time of confusion, fitting it for critcisive analysis rather than for poetry. Eighteen hundred years earlier this same note was sounded by St. Paul, who spoke of men ever learning and never coming to a knowledge of the truth."

This is illustrated in Keats' "Ode On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer." This poem is one of the noblest in the English language, expressing as it does great universal truth, yet in it he speaks of Cortez as the discoverer of the Pacific ocean, whereas, every student of history knows that not Cortez, but Balboa, was the man who gets credit for this discovery. But this mere historical inaccuracy does not affect the great universal truth which the poem teaches. Again, Hamlet, so far as facts of Danish history are concerned, is not an accurate portrayal of the real Danish prince of that name, yet what has that got to do with the great universal truth contained in the great master work, which will stand as one the truest portrayals of truth as long as the English language is known? Still Again, the Iliad sets forth the doings of gods and men with so much fidelity to universal experience that it comes down to us as a triumph of universal truth over all changes of time and conditions.

"Character must rest upon truth; a great poet must see life truly. "Truth is beauty; beauty, truth," is all we know and all we need to know. Any beautiful thing we may do with our lives or with our imaginations will assuredly be based upon truth. The true made perfect is the main aim of education.

"It is always relevent to ask "Is it true?" but it is not necessary to ask, "Is it fact?". The further up we go the more the distinction must be observed. We can ask ourselves the first of the questions concerning the experiences of Job or of Lazarus, but the latter is altogether irrevelant.

"The vein of all Biblical scholarship has been to stress the pursuit of facts, comparing animals and following up unsupported inferences of facts rather than finding the divine truth that reigns there.

"The same confusion is found in regard to details of knowledge. The details are so numerous that experts are required in each line, and a man does not have time to master much of the detailed knowledge of the world in his short life. The country is rapidly merging into a country of a second-rate experts and third-rate tradesmen. The whole trend of our lives is an insistence upon local and transient things, having nothing to do with higher, and to neglect individual and National greatness.

"The ideal college is a place of education, society and religion; the same is true of human life everywhere. First, man as himself; second, man in relation to other men; third, man in relation to the great moral order.

"The first of these precepts is being abused in most of our educational institutions, and many of our colleges are educational institutions with the education left out. This is especially true of the Northern and Eastern colleges and universities where athletic sports are allowed to dominate student activities, and it is true to a great extent right here in North Carolina. The undergraduate evils of Princeton were so great a few years back as to have failed to be put down by President Wilson, who put up a mighty fight against them. It is a question of grave doubt now whether or not the South has better opportunities of building up ideal educational institutions. We may do it; but, to do so, we must learn lessons from the others who have gone before us; we must profit by their failures and their successes.

"In athletic sports, if not duly subordinated, we see one of our greatest perils against a great college. This concerns us all. Public opinion in regard to clean athletics is growing worse in North Carolina. We want no spectacular games nor other undergraduate sports to any great extent. Scouts have been sent out this year with money from North Carolina colleges to buy promising athletes. This by perverting college ideals, not only imperils personal integrity, but destroys the moral fibre of the institution. This is not a small matter. An institution is like a man: it is of one piece, and has a reputation to maintain. It cannot be pure in one respect and rotten elsewhere. This is just the first note of warning; this note shall be stressed throughout North Carolina.

"As a place of society, the college ought to be free from idleness and luxury. We are not in so much danger here as are the colleges of the East and of the North where wealth plays an important part in the college life and society, but even here, we must be on our guard against idleness but even here, we must be on our guard against idleness and squandering, which oftentimes leads to ruined lives.

"As a place of religion, experts in this country deny that the religion and education should be united, and say that when they are both will suffer. Harvard is an exponent of this belief and endeavors to form a strong union of religion and education. Truth is a noble watchword for the American college, without any distinction being drawn between religious and educational."

"PINK BOLL" IN COTTON.

Anthracnose, How It Works and What to Do to Prevent Spreading.

(Bulletin.)

The spots on the boll grow to about one-half an inch, are brown, and covered at a certain stage with a pinkish coating. Affected bolls open prematurely, and the lint rots or is of inferior grade. Wet weather favors the disease. The loss sometimes reaches 75 or even 90 per cent of the bolls.

It is a fungus disease, and fortunately does not spread during a season because the reproductive spores in the pinkish masses are sticky and depend largely on spattering water rather than on wind for their dissemination. The disease is carried over Winter or introduced into new localities chiefly through internally infected seed that have developed in slightly affected bolls. No satisfactory seed treatment is known. The fungus may remain alive on the old stalks during the Winter; and cotton should not be planted in the same field the next year unless it has been Fall or Winter plowed to bury stalks.

To avoid the disease, do not plant contaminated seed. Safe seed of any variety can be secured from a moderately infected field if it is picked separately from stalks that have no diseased bolls and that stand a few feet away from affected stalks. If only a small amount can be secured, plant it in a special seed plot from which a large amount of clean seed can be had the year following. Be careful to have gins well cleaned if they have been used for diseased cotton.

Fortunately the disease is rather restricted as yet, but it is increasing at a dangerous rate. It is first brought into new localities in seed grown elsewhere. Growers are warned not to buy any cotton seed for planting unless reliably assured that it is free from disease. Take immediate steps to free your farm of this disease by the seed selection method. Get your neighbors to do the same. Full information about this and other important farm crop diseases is contained in Bulletin 182 of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

BALKAN REFUGEES MISERABLE.

Great Destitution Prevails Among Thousands from Greek Conquests.

Sofia, Sept. 27.—The agents sent out by the Balkan Committee from London to relieve the destitution prevailing in Macedonia have found the refugees from the fringe of the late Greek conquests in a pitiable state of misery. The worst state of things is found just south of this city which is crowded with refugees, who are still pouring in from the new Greek territory in Macedonia.

Efforts are being made to repatriate them, but without much success, as they still are in a state of panic. In Samokov and Nubrutza the refugees are findiny shelter in school houses, stables and other outhouses. All of them are destitute, without clothes, and many are in a wretched condition of health. The people of these places naturally are anxious to see their unsought guests repatriated, as the best the Bulgarian government can do for them is to provide bread. However, an agent sent to their former villages reports a deplorable condition of affairs there. Practically all of the villages have been burned and the rehousing of the refugees before Winter sets in is impossible.

The Greeks in the vicinity of Drama, where all of the villages have been burned, are doing admirable work in feeding the people, many of whom are lodged in convents. Fifteen thousand refugees are said to be in the vicinity of Drama. When the cold weather sets in shortly there is certain to be terrible suffering.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM.

Farmers Can Get it From the State at Cost of Production.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 27.—The North Carolina Department of Agriculture has for the past three years prepared and distributed to the farmers of this State anti-hog cholera serum at cost of production.

This serum is used as a preventative for hog cholera, and if injected before the hogs show any signs of cholera, it will prevent them from developing a case of cholera, even if they are exposed. It is not claimed for this serum that it will cure a case of cholera, as it is a preventative and not a curative measure.

The State began the preparation of this serum in a very limited way and has found that it has met with uniformly good results. The demand for it has continued to increase until it was impossible to meet the demands at the plant where we first began the work. In order to be in position to meet all demands made by the farmers this State has built and equipped a large new serum plant which will be used exclusively for preparing anti-hog cholera serum. For full information and directions for using this serum, apply to the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

ENGLISH ROYALTY TO WED

Preparing for Marriage of Duchess of Fife and Prince Arthur—California Tennis Players Give Britons Entirely New Idea.

London, Sept. 27. — Although the royal wedding between the Duchess of Fife and Prince Arthur of Connaught will not take place until October, preparations are already under way for the event.

The Chapel Royal, which is always closed at this season, while the royal family is in the North, is undergoing the necessary alterations for the ceremony. Before leaving London the Princess Royal and the Duchess of Fife planned the outlines for the trousseau, which will be all-British in material, although French models and modistes will be employed in its preparation.

Like the Queen, the Princess Royal and her daughter are not ardent admirers of prevailing styles and a somewhat modified form of the present rather scanty skirt will prevail in the bride's dresses. Ireland will have the honor of providing most of the linen both for the trousseau and household of the bride.

Wedding Present of 19 Pianos.

Plate will not be lacking in the new household, the regiments with which the bridegroom is connected and the tenants of the royal estates contributing generously to this department of the entourage. To prevent embarrassing duplication the royal couple will be allowed some choice in family gifts. When the present King married, the royal couple received nineteen pianos. Royal relatives will confine their presents largely to rare and virtually priceless jewels. Some of the members of the royal family are said to have combined on a gift which will consist of a crown of diamonds in ducal strawberry leaves.

The ceremony will be a semi-State affair, the invitations being sent out by the Lord Chamberlain in the name of the Princess Royal.

It is expected that the German Emperor, the German Crown Prince and Princess, the King and Queen of Norway, the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, the King and Queen of Spain, and all the members of tse English royal family will be present. The wedding breakfast will be served in St. James' palace. Accommodations being so limited, the guests will probably be confined almost entirely to royalty, but a great reception may be given the night before at Clarence House to the friends of the couple.

It is not expected that the Duke and Duchess of Kent, which will undoubtedly be the new title of the pair, will remain long in England as it is anticipated that Prince Arthur will succeed his father as Governor General of Canada.

Tennis All Year Round

The curtain has just rung down on the grass court season and the players are making preparations to remain in practice for the many hard court tournaments arranged for the coming April, when the grass season begins, thus making tennis in England an all round the year game.

Artificially lighted covered courts are also becoming popular, so that the office worker and business man need not give up his tennis when the short days come.

The lesson that the speed of the California tennis players is due to their play on asphalt and oil courts has been taken to heart by the British players, and hard court tennis promises to become the Winter game of England. The orders for hard courts have become so numerous that one firm which specializes in this form of court recently has received orders for six hundred. One of these, just finished, has been laid down for the Duke of Westminster in the rear of Grosvenor House and probably this is the most exclusively situated hard court in the world.

American Insect Destructive

An American insect scientifically termed Ephestia Kuhniella, but popularly known in Europe as the Mediterranean flour moth, has been held responsible for the deterioration of British army ration biscuits. Great quantities of ration biscuits have spoiled in recent years at colonial depots, principally in South Africa, Ceylon, Malta and other remote stations, and the damage has been due to the ravages of moths. A scientific commission spent three years investigating and experimenting to determine how and when the moths got into the biscuit, and a method of prevention.

This commission has made a report accompanied by an interesting exhibition in the Natural History Museum. It reported that the moth of American orgin mentioned, and another brought to Europe in rice from Rangoon were the principle cause of the spoiled biscuits. The investigators concluded that the moths infested flour in the factories between the baking of the food and the soldering of the tins in which it was packed. The only practical prevention they can suggest is the introduction of cooled, screened air into the kitchens, which should be continuously changed by fans, or other process. The question arises whether the cost of such arrangements would not be prohibitive.

The house in Columbia, S. C., where President Wilson spent a part of his boyhood and which his mother designed, has been renovated and offered to the President by the city of Columbia, whose citizens will buy it if the President should care to spend his Winters in that place. He said he would be glad to spend some time there if he went anywhere but from the looks of things, he would most likely spend his Winters in Washington at work.

The week started off with typical Fall weather and changes were noted throughout the country. A fearful storm raged in Ontario. The first frost of the season occurred in Tennessee and western North Carolina, and only four times in history has a frost shown up earlier than this. Frost occurred in Alabama, the earliest in 14 years; and the mercury dropped to 55 degrees at Florida points, establish new early records.

The smoke nuisance is said to cost Chicago nearly $8,000,000 yearly.

HORSE CLIMBED STAIRS.

Was Going Right Up to See Mayor When It Slipped Back Down.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 27.—A horse belonging to the L. Harvey & Son Co., an important local concern, drawing a dray of merchandise, created more excitement when he ran away late Wednesday than anything that has happened recently on Queen street, the city's busiest thoroughfare.

He performed what would have been believed an impossible feat by climbing a flight of stairs in the Loftin building, a two-story business structure. The horse and dray collided with an automobile in the mad flight down the street, and a little farther on ran into a wagon drawn by two horses. Here the frightened animal broke clear of the dray. The negro driver until then had stayed on the vehicle, but the force of the impact hurled him high into the air and out from the dray. He landed on his feet unhurt.

At the Loftin building the horse took to the sidewalk and dashed into the stairway leading up to the second floor. A negro coming down the steps very narrowly escaped being trampled by the plunging beast. Up 20 steps the animal clambered until, on the fifth from the top, the edge of the step broke from his weight, he slipped, and went rolling down to the street. He was not injured. If he had arrived at the top he would have had the choice of entering either the Grand theatre, a vaudeville show place, or the private office of Mayor Fred J. Sutton. Mr. Sutton was in his office, and hearing the commotion went to the head of the stairway and demanded to know what was going on. He saw for himself—a thousand pounds of horse rolling over and over down the steps.

While visiting the capital last week Tyrus Cobb called at the Treasury Department and finding some bank notes soon to be issued by the Bank of Lavonia, Ga., of which he is a director, he signed a number of them, which thoughtless (?) act will cause a scramble among bill collectors when the new issue comes out.

In 1912 fires caused aggregate losses of $75,290,000 in United States National forests.

BAD AS "DARKEST NEW YORK"

Wave of Crime in Berlin Sets the Philosophers to Pondering—Heat May Have Had Something to Do With It.

Berlin, Sept. 29.—A remarkable wave of crime has swept over Berlin in the past fortnight causing one of the newspapers to comment that "Berlin can now compete as the seat of bloody crimes with "darkest New York." There has been a murder for every day during that period, in addition to several unsuccessful attempts to commit murder.

The crimes took various forms. A house owner shot a tenant who was moving out. The owner of a hotel of loose reputation killed an indignant father who came to complain of happenings in the house. Two women of the working class were killed by their paramours. A deceived husband shot down his rival. A man murdered his aged wife with an axe as she slept. An employe of a bathing establishment killed the owner, a woman, after a quarrel about losses on horse races. A seamstress was enticed into the woods by a bogus matrimonial agent and murdered. Still another man tried to end the lives of himself, a wife and grown daughter by turning on the gas at night.

Hot Weather Responsible?

Murders have become so frequent that the theory of the periodicity of crime has been advanced to account for them. A Berlin newspaper editorially questions whether the city is not growing permanently more criminal, but finds some comfort in the fact that a majority of the murders were crimes of passion, rather than premeditated ones. It suggests that the hot wave that passed over Berlin about the end of August and the early part of September caused this remarkable increase in crime, and that men give way to their passions more readily in hot weather than in days of moderate temperature.

Statistics showing the great increase in infant mortality by Dr. Liefmann, chief bacteriologist at one of the great municipal hospitals, in the latest number of the German Medical Weekly, disprove the proverbial reference to women as the "weaker sex," so far at least as their early life is concerned. Dr. Liefmann found that when the death rate for nursing babies suddenly jumped during a typical heat wave early this Summer, the sexes were not equally affected, the death rate for boys being almost double that for girls. The figures were 182 deaths of boys to every 100 of girl babies. Dr. Liefmann states that this percentage is maintained in deaths from other causes and that boy babies succumb to ailments of all sorts more readily than girls.

The same ratio has been noted in other heated periods and there is no doubt, according to Dr. Liefmann, that on scorching days boy babies are taken ill more acutely and in greater numbers than girls. Long continued heat waves, however, gradually increase the mortality percentages among female babies and equalize the proportionate mortality of the sexes.

Passing of the Sword.

The sword, the soldier's proverbial weapon since the early days of history seems on the way to disappearance in the German army. The six cavalry regiments provided for by the army increase law, passed this year, will be without sabres, being armed instead with carbines equipped with the short infantry bayonet. The change is made experimentally but causes much headshaking among old line cavalrymen, for it is recognized that the experiment if successful may lead to its general adoption in the cavalry. With infantry officers now dispensing with the sword in actual warfare, to make themselves less conspicuous to opposing sharpshooters, and cavalry going into action with rifle and bayonet, poetical references to the sword of battle may have to be revised.

Loophole in Tax Law.

A German tax expert has found a curious and amusing loophole in the new armament taxation bills, by which a taxpayer, by reporting a greater amount of property for taxation than he possesses may pay less taxes than if assessed on the correct amount. The paradox is due to the fact that

WORLD'S LONGEST BRIDGE

Mammoth Structure to be Built in New York Will Make Possible Through Travel from Florida to Canada.

New York, Sept. 27.—Work has begun here on what will eventually be the longest bridge in the world, which is to be a part of the world's shortest four-track railroad—only six miles in length. This new bridge, the fifth to connect Old New York with Long Island will cross the Hell Gate end of East river, with footholds on both Ward's and Randall's Islands.

The New York rise begins at 142nd street. At Bronx Kill it will be 65 feet clear above water. Between the Bronx and Randall's Island the span will be divided so that each half may lift and allow the passing of vessels between. This is known among bridge builders as the "Jack knife draw." There will be a clearing of 135 feet above high water over the main channel of East river between Ward's Island and Long Island. The longest of the five spans will be 1,017 1-2 feet. The abutment bases are of granite masonry, surmounted by towers of concrete masonry, which will support the largest and heaviest steel members ever fabricated in a bridge shop. Some of these pieces will weigh 185 tons. About 90,000 tons of steel will be required and 440,000 cubic yards of masonry. This road—the New York Connecting Railroad, by name—is to be the link, heretofore missing, for through travel without change between Canada and Florida.

Cheaper Houses.

City houses that can be purchased at a cost of 68 cents a day are about to be placed within reach of New Yorkers. Taxes, insurance and water rents will increase this daily cost to 83 cents. Plans for a first batch of 150 such houses are ready and for them there are already more than 600 applicants. The scheme is not a phil-the new measures combine a direct property tax with a higher increment tax and can be taken advantage of only by a taxpayer who has reason to expect a steady increase in the value of his property. If he discounts this and returns his property next January at the figure which he expects it will reach in 1917, when the increment tax becomes effective, he will, it is true, pay a higher direct tax but save the amount of the increment tax, which on moderate properties is 75 per cent. of the increase as against the direct tax rate of from 15 to 35 per cent.

The government, faced with the possibility of this curious form of tax dodging, has been forced to announce semi-officially that persons returning their property for assessment at an excessive figure will be subjected to the same penalties of imprisonment and fine as those returning too little.

How It Works Out.

Dr. Heinz Pothhoff, of Dusseldorf, who found this important loophole in the law, illustrates it with the following example:

A has property valued at $7,500, which he increases each year through savings and labor by 1,250. If he is assed in 1914 for $7,500 and in 1917 for $11,250, his taxes will amount to 15 per cent. of $7,500 and 75 per cent of the increase of $3,750, he will have to pay only 15 per cent. of this during the next three years, amounting to $14.37, and no tax for the succeeding period, since there is no increment. He there-fore saves $25 by giving the higher valuation.

The saving is relatively smaller in the case of large properties. If A has property worth $37,500, which he increases each year by $2,500, his taxes for the six years under a proper valuation would amount to $181.25. If he has his property valued in the beginning at $42,500, his taxes will amount to only $150, showing a saving of $31.25.

ARMY BANISHES TYPHOID.

Fever Has Disappeared from Ranks of Uncle Sam's Warriors.

Typhoid fever has been banished from the United States Army. When our soldiers are needed, hereafter the American people can feel sure that, as far as this disease is concerned, the full strength of each company and regiment will be on the firing line. In previous wars, from 10 to 40 per cent of the opposing forces have been in the hospitals, incapacitated through various diseases. During the Spanish-American war, out of 10,759 soldiers in camp at Jacksonville, Fla., there were 2,693 cases of typhoid. If this division had been in the midst of an active campaign its fighting strength would have been weakened about one-third, not only by the loss of these patients, but also by the loss of the men necessary to care for and transport them. Any means which will reduce or eliminate any of the diseases from which soldiers have suffered in the past will actually increase both the strength and the efficiency of the army. It will also greatly increase the chances of our volunteer soldiers returning safe from war, as disease has, in every war in history so far, killed more soldiers than bullets. An official announcement of the elimination of typhoid from our army is an event in which every citizen should feel a keen interest. In a recent issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association, Major Frederick F. Russell, of the Medical Corps summarizes the results secured through vaccination. In 1902, with an enlisted strength of 80,778 men and officers, there were in our regular army 565 cases of typhoid. In 1909, out of 84,077 men there were 282 cases. In March, 1909, vaccination was begun, but the number vaccinated that year, 830, was too small to affect the ratio. In 1910 over 16,000 were vaccinated, and at once the number of typhoid cases began to diminish. In 1911 there were only 70 cases. In the same year vaccination for typhoid was made compulsory on all persons in the military service and on all recruits. In 1912, the first year in which the entire army was immunized, there were only 27 cases, the last one occurring December 19, 1912. Since that date, now nine months ago, there has not been a single case of typhoid in the army.

Major Russell also reports that during the past four years over 200,000 persons have been vaccinated without a single death or injurious result. Such an experience on so large a scale certainly justifies his conclusion that by the general use of vaccination typhoid fever will soon become a negligible factor in our public health problems.

STEEL VESSELS COMING.

Many of Modern Type Boats Will be Put on in the Near Future.

No less than 10 or 12 steel vessels of large size will be placed with coast and lake shipbuilders during the next few months, according to opinions expressed in high circles in the steel trade.

A survey of the situation shows a large number of vessels in the preparatory stage of plans issued or prices being taken now before the shipyards along the Atlantic coast. A project by the Florida & East Coast railway provides for the establishment of an open-sea ferry from Key West to Havana, and contracts for two unusually large ferry boats for this line are about to be placed. These boats will be 411 feet long, 58 feet beam and 24-inch depth of hold, and each will have a capacity of carrying 36 of the largest passenger cars. The Atlantic Coast Line, as previously reported, is figuring on a car ferry of unusual size. The Hamburg-American steamship Co. is again reviving its plans for the building of three large freight and passenger steamships for coastwise traffic through the Panama canal. These boats will be 500 feet long, and will have a speed of not less than 18 knots per hour. The United Fruit Co. is also figuring on a fleet of vessels to run through the Panama canal. The boats of this company have usually been built by Workman & Clark, of Belfast, Ireland, but it is expected that by reason of the toll exemption for American built vessels, several of these steamships will be built in this country.

The New York Shipbuilding Co. will build a steel hydraulic dredge for the government for use on the deep inland waterways between Norfolk and Beaufort, N. C. About 500 tons of steel will be required. The Isthmian Canal Commission will soon take bids on three sea-going tugs, 135 feet long, 30 feet beam and 17 feet depth of hold for use on the Panama canal. These will have 1,200 horsepower, and engines will be adapted to use either coal or fuel oil.—The Iron Trade Review.

Off the Track

(By J. W. Chambliss.)

The limited passenger train is running fifty miles an hour. In the smoking rooms of the pullman men joke and laugh. Others play cards and still others tell risque stories. The train is crowded and the passengers are wearied. Ahead of the more pleasant sleepers the day coaches, hot and dusty, are filled with traveling humanity.

The train is running late and in the cab the engineer, peering into the mist, drives his engine a little faster. The heavy sleepers as they sway to and fro make anly a gentle rocking for the people who chat and read and nap. Again the engineer opens the trottle just a little more in his effort to make faster time. Crash! engine and cars and flesh and blood are ground together in a shapeless, horrid mass.

Off the track!

And so goes humanity's train. Here is a boy and he has started on a fast schedule. He began by pilfering from his father's cash drawer. Growing older he travels a little faster. Down grade he goes. Faster and faster. There is the rapidity of the age in his blood. He drives hard. Directly comes the crash. The newspaper tells coldly the story of the smash. It is a murder and a suicide. The big world halts for a moment—it only halts. Some who knew him, friends they were, murmur, "I never thought he was bad!" Others say, "He went it too fast." But after all it is but a young man,—

Off the track!

These are rapid days and the young girl thinks her mother is entirely too slow and much too old fashioned. "Mother is a dear, but she is a little old fogy." The mother with a warm heart and with a longing for the better things suggests to the girl. But the age is changing and the girl goes to places where the mother would not have gone and where the mother would rather the girl would not go. The girl cheek loves its bloom. Brutal appetite lusts after the youngful innocence——One day a brazen, drunken creature, cursing and shrieking is loading into patrol wagon. It is driven to the police station. She is locked in the cell. What is it? The age is swift and only for a moment does the world hesitate and some one remarks, only a woman.

Off the track!

This rushing age is gold-crazed apparently. Man is wild to be rich, and wildly does he grive for the thousands and millions that are supposed to speak happiness. The man is in a hurry to be wealthy and he drives faster. His father's methods will not do. What's the use of toiling when by a harder drive the result may be achieved the more quickly?

Others by speculation have amassed their fortunes and have done it safely. So speculate! Surely I am as shrewd as the other man. One day there is a pistol shot. Scare head lines in the morning paper tell the story. Again the hurrying world halts. But only for a brief second for the story is heard too often to attract serious attention. The world hesitates for a breath however for again it is true that a man is—

Off the track!

Why did that splendid train get off the track? It was a well-equipped train and it was composed of a magnificent engine and the most modern cars. Maybe the rails were too light? Maybe the curve was too sharp. Maybe there was a faulty wheel to one of the cars. Maybe a brake dropped from place. Maybe a defective switch bar. Maybe a rotten tie. Slower locomotion might have prevented the accident. Fifty miles an hour is too fast for safety. But the competitive line is driving their trains at fifty miles. This must certainly meet competition. The train must go in the station on the "dot." Open the throttle! Shovel in the coal! Drive the engine! Make time—what matters it if we go—

Off the track!

This age is a rapid age. Business is going at a fifty miles-an-hour clip. Society is driving as fast. Rather than be sidetracked by a conpetitor men will drive so hard that they go into the ditch. Many are running wild. There are frequent collisions and wrecks innumerable and all because of getting—

Off the track!

Watch out! Look ahead, venturesome man and reckless man! Open your eyes, speculative business master! Watch your speed young men and maidens. The race is not to the swift. Put on the brakes. Slow up. There is danger ahead. Look out. Before you realize it you will be—

Off the track!

The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to suspend the 2 1-2 cent passenger rate law in Alabama. The State won in the fight against the law in the lower courts and the railroads sought to have the operation of the act held up until the Supreme Court could pass on its validity. So the State wins again.

WORLD'S LONGEST BRIDGE

anthropic one, but provides a reasonable profit while supplying livable houses at low cost to wage earners. The first group is to be built in the Borough of Queens convenient to many large industrial plants. They are to be one-family, two-story houses with at least three bedrooms, besides living room, kitchen and bath. The cheaper houses will be built in rows after the type known as "Philadelphia houses," while the more expensive ones are to be semi-detached, with gardens on three sides. Conditions to be exacted of those who buy will be good moral character, five years' steady employment, recommendation of employers for trustworthiness, generally good health, and at least one child to the family.

Deep Sea Hotel No More.

"All ashore on October 7th," is the order that has been promulgated on aboard the "Jacob Stamler," a fine old three-masted ship which had long ploughed the "seven seas" before its conversion by a well known philanthropist about 15 years ago into a 'deep sea hotel" for workers. Here it has been possible for a self-supporting young woman or man to enjoy the comforts of a well-ventilated room and three wholesome home-cooked meals a day for $2.80 and $3.50 per week, respectively. A great boon has this opportunity been to many who found it impossible to live decently on their weekly earnings of five or six dollars, or even less. In former years it was customary to run the floating hotel out beyond Sandy Hook and anchor for the night, and the ocean air brought health and happiness to the worn and brain-fagged workers aboard, but dire possibilities of fire and storm were suggested by the General Slocum tragedy, since which the hotel has been kept safely in port. As a matter of course, the schooner yacht "Gitana," which has been moored alongside the "Stamler" and used as sleeping quarters by the men boarders, will likewise be put out of commission. As might be expected, the decision to discontinue the hotel has been received as a sad blow by all those on board and an appeal for reconsideration has already been made.

Heroin Habit Next.

The heroin habit is declared to be New York's newest and greatest peril. The discoverer of the extensive and rapidly-growing use of heroin for narcotic purposes pronounces this white, crystalline, odorless powder one of the most dangerous of drugs—five times as powerful as morphine, for instance. Although the drug has been on the market only about five years and its sale is supposedly restricted, it appears that thousands of New Yorkers—many of whom are mere youths—already are slaves to its use and that it is working frightful havoc—mentally, morally and physically—in every section of the city and among every stratum of society. The habit is most frequently acquired from the use of "quack" remedies for such troubles as catarrh, asthma and colds, though one of its worst features is the disposition of heroin fiends to urge its use upon others. Among the trade marks of its habitual users are a yellow whiteness of the face, a down-drawn, stupid mouth, always elevated eyebrows, and a "dopey" look in the eyes.

Unguarded Convicts.

A most remarkable case of its kind was the recent transfer without any guard whatever of a group of convicts from the State farm at Valatie, New York, to the Great Meadow prison at Comstock. There were eight of them—all long-term men, three having been convicted of manslaughter. According to the farm authorities their prison records were so good that no fear was entertained of any attempt to escape when thus placed on their honor, although a lay-over of nearly an hour at Albany afforded ample opportunity. All were dressed in overalls, except one young member of a well-to-do family in this city, who was resplendent in a new suit of clothes just received from home. There was nothing about the men to distinguish them from ordinary workers. They were, however, establishing a record in the criminal history of the State. —LONGACRE.

CHALLENGE TO MILITANTS

Anti-Suffragists Propound Question to the Suffragettes—"Without Vice the Ballot of Women is Useless."

"Sugragists are invited to expiain the following phenomena:

"The ordinary forms of dancing have become so degraded that frequently, when they are practiced in public, the police take the place of chaperones.

"Women, misled by the present bacchanalia of fashion, are arrested and haled into court because of their indecent dress.

"Magazines print material so salacious that they escape only by a hair's breadth being barred from the United States mails.

"Theatrical managers produce plays depicting houses into which neither decent women nor self-respecting men would ever go.

"And, as a preface to these performances, conversation in many places turns to vulgarity."

These are the opening sentences in a sweeping challenge addressed to the sugragists of the United States by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, of which Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, the well known society woman and philanthropist of New York, is president. The statement was put out at Washington last week through the organization's Washington headquarters. It continues:

"The keystone of the argumentative arch of suffragism is that the women must have the ballot in order to wipe out vice. If there is no vice, or if it is not rampant and overwhelming, the suffragists have no ground upon which to stand. The ballot is the great good thing. And, in order to secure the great good thing, the suffragists must blazon to the world the great bad thing! Without vice, the ballot of the women is useless (we merely paraphrase their arguments).

"Their great argument is that the vice of the American people obliges them to avertise vice. But the truth is that their advertisement of vice creates and recreates vice. Their argument is as sensible as if they said the blooming of a jonquil made the Spring come or that the fading of a leaf brought upon us the frosts of Autumn. As a matter of fact, the Spring brings the jonquil and the Autumn withers the leaf. The most stunning menace to the morals and manners of today is contained in this astounding habit of women in actually trying to convince all classes that vice is predominant.

"It manufactures morbidity. It stimulates a criminal curiosity. It is rare food for those who ape the doers of evil. Whence come the gossamer stocking, the cobweb waist, and diaphanous skirt? Are they not the thin reflection of the terrific impress made on the public taste by the preachments of the pursuers of vice?

"In the hunt for the ballot and the consequent advertisement of vice, reverence has been thrown down and reticence has been cast out. Those things which should be covered have been uncovered, and the unformed young mind has been led into forbidden places. These are some of the things which the suffragists are invited to explain.

"If the policing of morals, the smirching of literature, and the degeneracy of the stage are not due to those women who describe vice as an accepted fact, to what is it due? The answer will, no doubt, be interesting if true."

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Wilmington Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

If your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
If urinary troubles set in,
Perhaps your kidneys are "in a bad way."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Local evidence proves their merit. L. H. Partin, 505 Chesnut street, Wilmington, N. C., says: "My back was weak and lame and I had acute pains across my loins. The secretions from my kidneys were highly colored and filled with sediment and caused me much distress when being voided. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a box from Bellamy's drug store and began using them according to directions. They acted just as represented and drove away all the symptoms of the complaint. I am pleased to confirm my former public endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Football Prophets Busy

THE rumble and grumble of the approaching football season is now heard, and of course the pigskin prophets are in their heyday. Every college in the United States has the only championship eleven. Every team in the land has at least one star player absolutely guaranteed to make touchdowns or kick goals from the field even while sound asleep, and news of "the greatest find in the history of the game" is plentiful in all sections.

However, be patient and have a heart. The "silly season" is now about over, so far as football phenom stories are concerned, and real truth about teams and candidates may be expected from now on.

Coaches and captains who have read and analyzed the new playing rules are agreed that they are better than those of last year. The game will be benefited by the abolition of the five yard rule. The result will be an even more open game, and scoring should be more frequent.

That lessening the chances of scoring is a handicap to the game no student of football will deny, and the solons were wise to take cognizance of the fact. In their efforts to eliminate some of the roughness a few years ago the intercollegiate committee that has charge of the regulations came very close to ruining the great sport by making it too gentle. Keen observers agree that if football is to retain its popularity it must not be emasculated and should retain the rugged qualities that originally brought it into national favor.

International Sport For Next Year.

We are certainly going to get our fill of international sporting treats next year. In addition to the Davis cup games and the yacht races for the America's cut, it is now almost certain that England will send over a team to try once again to lift the Westchester polo cup. While no formal challenge has yet been received, William A. Hazard, secretary of the Polo association, says there is no doubt that America and England will meet on the polo field next year. This is how Mr. Hazard puts it:

"While we have not yet received a formal challenge from the Hurlingham club—England has until the last day of the year to send one in—we are unofficially informed that a challenge will be sent over before the end of the year."

Trouble Ahead.

In the event of a challenge being received only one thing can prevent the matches being held. The Englishmen will find the Americans prepared and anxious to meet any team that may be sent over, but if the challengers insist upon the games being played in September instead of June, which, according to cable dispatches, they intend to do, the challenge will have to be refused, as the Polo association could not think for a moment of putting a team into the field after the polo season in America was practically over.

Captain E. D. Miller, D. S. O., who managed the British team this year, is responsible for the suggestion that the matches be held in the autumn. In a comprehensive review of the international matches in the Field, Captain Miller says:

"Obviously the best time of the year from our point of view for these matches to take place is the autumn. Unfortunately a year or two ago a deed of gift was drawn up to settle the conditions under which this cup shall be played for, and our difficulties as regards the undertaking were greatly increased when consent was given to the matches being played in the month of June. I do not know if the American Polo association will ever consent to this condition being altered, but an attempt should be made to persuade it to do so.

"Easier For the British."

"It will be infinitely easier to organize another expedition if the next matches take place in the autumn. August and September are holiday months, and it is much easier for busy men to get away then. The English team can practice together all through the summer. They can play for the Champion cup and Ranelagh open cup and can have special matches against the next best four in England. They can go to America at the end of July, can take part in the Narragansett and Newport tournaments in August and can then proceed to Piping Rock for September and play the matches at Meadowbrook at the end of that month, when the climate is quite good.

"The difficulty in the selection of and borrowing of ponies would also be vastly simplified, for many men would lend ponies for the autumn who would not part with them at the beginning of the season."

An Impossible Idea.

According to Mr. Hazard, the September idea is impossible. "We would of course like to accommodate the Englishmen," he says, "but we could not think of agreeing to an alteration of the clause in the deed of gift covering the time of year the matches are to be played. In September the polo season is all over in this country, as it also is in England, and, if the English owners of ponies would not lend their mounts to the challengers for June and the English players would rather take part in their own tournaments than give up the time to come over to America after the cup, then that is their business.

"Let the Englishmen come over in the spring, as they did in 1911, when they would have plenty of time at Lakewood to get their practice."

Baseball and Other Topics

It is reported that Lord Ashby St. Legers will finance the next British team. In mustering his ponies he will be helped out by the Duke of Peneranda, who, besides being a member of King Alfonso's team in Madrid, supports one of the best polo stables in England. Four of the men already tentatively selected by Lord St. Legers for his team are Captain Ritson, Captain Lockett, Captain E. Palmer and Captain F. W. Barrett. Captain Barrett was the sensation of the English polo season which has just concluded.

Nickalls to Coach Penn.

Vivian Nickalls, the famous English oarsman, recently signed as coach of the University of Pennsylvania crews, has arrived in Philadelphia. He visited the college boat club on the Schulkill river, where the Red and Blue crews are launched.

The new coach said recently: "There is no reason whatever why the Red and Blue should not be successful in rowing. There are hundreds of powerful young men here who have every physical requisite to make good oarsmen. Among them I am sure to find enough candidates with experience to form a nucleus around which to build winning combinations. The Penn crews will row the same stroke that was so successful at Detroit."

Dr. Sam Gordon, the Vesper Boat club sculler, expects to enter the University of Pennsylvania this fall for some postgraduate work and will make an ideal stroke.

Ball Players In the "Movies."

Tyrus Cobb, Larry Lajoie, Joe Jackson, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Jean Dubuc and some of the other stars of the American league will have their feats of the diamond displayed on the motion picture screen during the coming winter, provided plans that are now being formulated by two or three of the big motion picture companies go through. It is proposed to take the stars south shortly after the close of the world's series and have them perform in plays drafted and built up around baseball incidents of a major league season. The diamond has been one of the big fields that have not been thoroughly covered by motion pictures, and it is the belief of the originators of the plan that such a series of plays would preserve the identity of the present day stars and would serve as a future basis for the comparison of players. Not alone that, but the screens would furnish amusement for the jaded spirits of baseball fans during the winter months. It is not thought that the picture firms will encounter any opposition from the owners of major league teams. President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club will not put any obstacles in the path of the originators of the scheme. Mr. Navin declares that he has no objections to having his players perform before the camera, and the question now is one that is revolving around the probable demands of the men for their services.

World's Greatest Amateur Golfer.

That Jerry Travers of the Upper Montclair (N. J.) Golf club is the world's greatest amateur golfer is conceded by the severest critics of the game since his sensational winning of the championship title at Garden City, N. Y., for the fourth time.

Travers is the first man that ever won the title four times, and some experts aver that he stands a chance of capturing the honor four times more.

Travers studies golf. He studies the game just as a scientist examines specimens under a microscope, and therein is found the reason for his wonderful exploits on the links.

The Value of the Pitcher.

Colonel S. Mercer avers that the two most valuable athletes to their ball clubs for this season are Jackson of Cleveland and Cravath of Philadelphia. Then, again, there's a guy named Johnson. Quite a pitcher, as pitchers go. They say that pitchers shouldn't be included, but where were the Phillies when Seaton and Alexander faded out? Where would the Senators be without Johnson or the White Sox without "Lefty" Russell?

"BIG ED" WALSH MAKING GOOD AS A CHICAGO OUTFIELDER

Photos by American Press Association.

"BIG ED" WALSH, once the stellar American league pitcher, is now shining brightly as an outfielder. "Big Ed" won many notable contests for the Chicago White Sox when a twirler, and now he is aiding in victories by speedy fielding and good batting. Walsh's career reminds one of that of Cy Seymour, who, once a pitcher for the New York Nationals, returned to the team as an outfielder after his twirling career was ended.

Sonder Boat Ellen, Winner of International Yacht Race Series

THE triumph of the American yachts in the sonder boat races at Marblehead, Mass., over the German entrants, which were backed by Emperor William of Germany, has established the supremacy of the United States in small boat building and racing. The fact that not a single German boat reached the final series of races illustrates how thoroughly they were outclassed.

The final race in the fifth German-American yacht series and probably the last of the international contest which began with this type of boat in 1906, was sailed in what Marbleheaders called "a breeze of wind" and was won by the Ellen, owned by Charles P. Curtis and sailed by his son. The victory carried with it the President Wilson cup, which was handed to the Ellen's crew in the parlors of the White House on Sept. 11.

The Cima, the other survivor of the elimination races, owned by Guy Lowthe Boston architect, was one minute and thirty-three seconds astern of the Ellen in the race.

At a formal banquet in connection with the visit of the German yachtsmen Governor Foss presented to the crew of the Cima the jewel case which was second prize in the series.

The race was sailed in a northeaster. The conditions must have been particularly exasperating to the German yachtsmen, whose yachts had failed to score in the drifting matches and who return home without having had a chance to show the worth of their three boats under conditions even approaching a whole sail breeze.

From informal discussion among the yachtsmen of both countries it is expected that future German-American yacht races will be sailed with what are known in Germany as eight meter boats, corresponding to class R yachts in this country. If such a series of races is arranged it will not be sailed before 1915 and probably not until 1916.

YES, BASEBALL HAS ITS HUMOROUS SIDE

SOME baseball players obey orders literally, others consistently.

A recruit joined the New York Giants one day. A couple of the McGrawites got on. The recruit was told to go drive 'em in.

"Wait for a good one," said the manager. One came up that was called a strike. Another hit the man's bat accidentally and bounced on to the bleachers. Two strikes. A brand new ball was thrown into play. The batter heaved at the first issue, which was three feet over his head. He missed it.

"You're out," yelled the umpire.

"I thought I told you to wait for a good ball," shrieked McGraw.

"I did; it was the first new ball I had a chance at," rejoined the recruit.

With a runner on second and one out in the ninth Bob Bescher of the Cincinati club a few weeks ago lined one over Paskert's head. Dode, with his back to the crowd, pursued the drive. He settled under the ball, and then dropped it. It was scored as a double because it was such a hard chance. When Bescher reached second F. Otto Knabe commiserated with him.

"That's pretty tough to be robbed of a hit like that."

The trusting Bescher drew from this remark that Baskert must have caught the ball. He looked at Packard, who was on third, and then walked slowly toward first, en route to the bench. The deceptive Knabe called for the ball, and Bescher, who then saw that he had been tricked, was run down and tagged.

"Boss" Tinker, who was on the coaching lines, took his cap and threw it at a high rate of speed on the ground. He also administered an al fresco call down that made Bescher's teeth chatter. Had Bescher stayed on second the Reds would have won that game, for Dodge flipped a clean single to center.

They say that the break pulled by Bescher had only one parallel. It was in a game at the Reds' park against Pittsburgh. McLean was catching, Fred Clarke on second and Wagner at bat. A down dropping pitch shot through Larry's glove and fell between his capacious feet.

As he looked around for the ball Wagner pointed with his bat to the faraway bench and said:

"It rolled over there."

Solemnly and in all innocence Larry went over to the bench looking for the ball, while Clarke trotted to third and the stands grew loud in personal accusation.

Fred Clarke had a young outfielder by the name of McGowan.

McGowan was playing his first game in the outfield for Pittsburgh.

One of the opposing players knocked a high fly in McGowan's direction. Somehow he lost his nerve and was unable to judge it correctly. He made three or four circles and finally gave it up entirely, just as the ball came down on his head and bounded to the far corner of the field, two runners scoring.

Clarke was wild. The game was lost.

Picking up a catcher's mask and rushing out to the bewildered fielder, he yelled:

"Here, you boneheaded mutt, come here!"

When he came up with the player he began again.

"Here, you bonehead!" he yelled, "take this mask and put it on or they'll knock your brains out with the next fly!"

Joe Cantillon, now with Minneapolis, had a young fellow by the name of Kay in Washington. Kay was a hitter, but a genuine bonehead.

Joe Cantillon, surly and gruff, was boss at Washington. Kay went to bat.

"Use your head!" said Cantillon.

Kay resolved to do as he was told. On the very first ball pitched, thrown with violent force, Kay stuck his head out and the contact was heard for a considerable distance. As he trudged to first, smarting under the pain of the blow, Cantillon bellowed, "You big rummy, what were you aiming at?"

Shaking from head to foot, fearful of further criticism, Kay managed to stutter, "You told me—to—use my—head, and I did it!"

Revolt of Ball Players Over Salary Question

RUMORS of a concerted demand for increased salaries in the major and minor leagues have been in circulation for some time. In fact, organized baseball men already are discussing the possibility of a big strike for increased wages. The move to enlist players in the class A A leagues as members of the fraternity is considered hostile by the big magnates, who seem to think that an effort will be made to block an attempt to fight a strike by the engagement of minor league material.

Recently there was a rumpus in the dressing room of one of the western clubs which threw light on the supposed plans of the fraternity. A certain well known pitcher, who hesitated about joining Fultz's organization, declared openly that he would not take part in a strike for more pay. He was denounced as a "scab" and a traitor to the cause, whereupon he paid his dues with the understanding that he could do as he pleased if a strike were ordered.

Fogel, who still smarts under his expulsion from the National league, is said to have pointed out to Fultz if the Players' Fraternity forms a working combination with the Federal league promoters it will be an easy matter to dig up men with money who will finance a big circuit to be run in opposition to organized ball. According to the information that has leaked out, Fogel is reported to have named prospective backers of a revolt who will invest heavily if the players join hands with them.

So far Fultz, while in a receptive mood, has refrained from encouraging Fogel and the Federal league people, probably because the fraternity is not ready to leap into a pot of trouble, but if a demand for increased salaries all along the line is turned down, it is said, Fogel's schemes will be considered seriously. The organized magnates, it is said, are keeping in close touch with the situation and when the proper time arrives they will "call" several discontented ringleaders in the players' ranks.

Outwardly the magnates laugh when asked about these underground rumors, but that is the best policy.

HOLDS STOVALL.

GEORGE STOVALL, recently deposed as manager of the St. Louis Browns, wants his unconditional release, but Owner Hedges won't give it to him. Hedges declares that Stovall has been treated fairly and that as the property of the Browns he is valuable material for a trade.

USES TWO GLOVES.

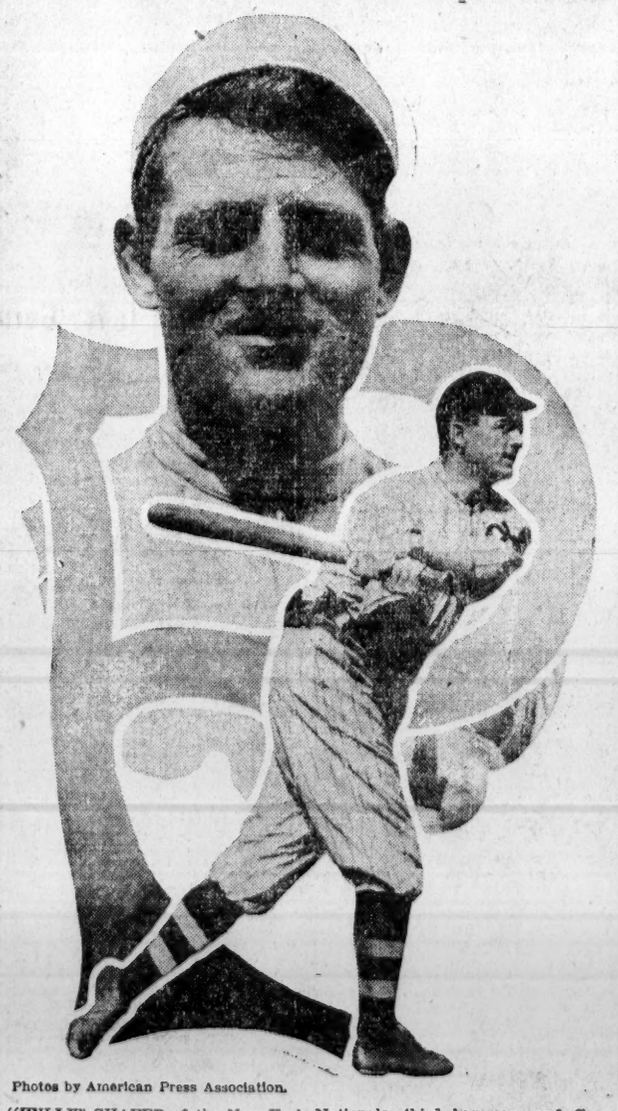
TWO OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTING STARS



Photos by American Press Association.

"TILLY" SHAFER of the New York Nationals, third baseman, and Cravath, right fielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, have made impressive batting records during this season and are deemed worthy by the critics of occupying prominent positions in the baseball hall of fame. Shafer is depended on by the Giants to perform notably with the stick in the forthcoming world's series. Both Shafer and Cravath have batted consistently above the .300 mark during the year. Cravath is the upper figure in the cut, Shafer the lower one, with the bat.

A GREAT PITCHER WHO CAME NEAR GOING TO THE MINORS

THE uncertainty of baseball has made heroes of some and dubs of others. The caprices of fate have made some managers a success and others rank failures. A hunch has often brought a star, while well founded reports have produced lemons. Ball players who later star are often passed up for recruits who prove "bones."

"Rebel" Russell is one of the most promising youngsters in the major league. The effective work of the southpaw has enabled the Chicago White Sox to remain in the first division with Ed Walsh unable to pitch, but the wise leader of the White Sox was willing to part with his star before the opening of the Southern league season, and the Birmingham team of the Southern league had an opportunity to land a phenom. Comiskey was especially anxious to place the youngster with the Barons.

In March, when "Chubby" Molesworth was searching for a twirler, the White Sox offered the young southpaw, "Rebel" Russell. The owner explained that possibly Russell could stand the pace in the Southern, for he had proved a wonder in the Texas league in 1912. The price was not an enormous one, but the Barons hesitated.

PELKEY DEAD RINGER FOR JEFF.

ARTHUR PELKEY, world's heavyweight champion, looks just like ex-Champion Jim Jeffries when the latter was young. At least his features are very much like Jeff's. Pelkey is taller and thinner than Jeff, but his talk and the way he carries himself are identical with the way Jeff acted when he was in his prime.

Pelkey has the neck and jaw of a fighter. The neck is thick and short and is set on wide and powerful shoulders. It's the short, thick necked fighter who can stand jaw punches. The long necked boxer has not the resisting power. Pelkey has two cauliflower ears, mementos of past ring engagements. The new champion is wonderfully quick on his feet, and his defense is excellent, while the quickness with which he takes advantage of an opening is remarkable when you consider his bulk.

TUTHILL AT WEST POINT.

HARRY TUTHILL, trainer of the Detroit American league team, who also has acted as trainer for the cadet football team for the last two seasons, has again been engaged as trainer for the army football eleven.

THREE JOBS FOR CY.

THE veteran Cy Seymour has organized a strong semi-pro. team to play in and around Greater New York, which he has named "Cy Seymour's Stars." He will be the captain, manager and center fielder of the team.

QUINN DROPS SPITBALL.

BIG Jack Quinn, former pitcher of the New York Americans, who was bought by the Boston Braves from Rochester, is said to have given up the use of a spitter and has developed a puzzling curve ball.

NORTH CAROLINA AUTHOR AND DRAMATIST

How Thomas Dixon Put One Over on Walter Page, Our Ambassador to Great Britain.

"The Leopard's Spots" was Thomas Dixon's first novel, and the manner in which it came to be published was unusually interesting.

We often hear of the long painful struggle of unknown authors to get a hearing with their first books—this time the tale is reversed—Mr. Dixon sent this manuscript to Walter H. Page who had reported his speeches in the Legislature of North Carolina where he entered his term as a lawmaker before 21 years of age.

The present Ambassador to Great Britain was therefore the judge into whose hands this first manuscript fell. Page sat up all night to read it and sent the author a long telegram of congratulations from bed next day. Within twenty-four hours from its arrival in New York, the story was accepted by Doubleday, Page & Co., for publication.

On reaching New York from his home in Virginia the author told Mr. Page that the book would sell over a hundred thousand copies.

"Forget it!" the publisher laughed. "You've been hearing fairy tales about the big sales of novels. Such things don't happen nowadays to new authors. You'll think we're no good as publishers!"

Mr. Dixon insisted and Mr. Page continued to laugh the idea to scorn.

"All right," said the author, "I dare you to give me a sliding scale of royalties above 50,000 copies which I shall fix!"

"Anything you ask!" Mr. Page cried with another laugh, handing Mr. Dixon a pad and pencil. "Write your own contract above 50,000 and I'll sign it."

The offer was promptly and eagerly accepted and when Page's eye ran over the big figures he laughed again and affixed the firm's name without a moment's hesitation.

"The Leopard's Spots" quickly passed the 50,000 mark and in a few months the author was drawing the figures he had written in the contract. The book has sold over 500,000 copies and still sells 50,000 a year.

Mr. Dixon has had the laugh on his publishers ever since—especially when the checks arrive.

The author's own dramatization of his book will be seen here on Thursday, October 16th, at the Academy of Music, matinee and night.

Dangers of a Jingoe Press

An appeal for loyalty and patriotism in the American Press, with phases of the Mexican situation present as an example of the result of unwise or misleading newspaper publications marked an address of Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels before the annual meeting of the Indiana members of the Associated Press Wednesday night at Indianapolis.

Himself an editor, Mr. Daniels talked freely with his fellows about the privileges and duties of the newspaper man, dealing particularly with the part to be played when the interests of the nation are at stake in an international controversy.

"Provisional President Huerta in his recent message to the Mexican Congress," said the Secretary, "made a statement which arrested the attention of every American when he said: 'Besides the fratricidal strife which exhausts us, the tenseness of our diplomatic relations with the government of the United States, although luckily not with that people, has put us in a state of apprehension and retarded the complete pacification of the republic.'

"This official utterance of the acting head of the government in Mexico City, not only attracted National attention, but challenged National denial that any sentiment existed in the United States to warrant the declaration. But what was the basis which led Huerta into his error? What plausible ground did he have for asserting that public opinion was not behind the President of the United States in the latter's efforts to arrive at an amicable understanding with Mexico?

Huerta Judged by Jingoes.

"Of course, the wish was father to the thought with General Huerta, but it must be admitted that the attitude of some of the newspapers of the United States and occasional expressions by well known Americans might have given the impression that the people were divided in their opinion on this subject of the recognition of the Huerta regime."

"It is far from my purpose to call in question that the editors of these newspapers and others were conscientious in their convictions," Mr. Daniels continued. "They are all most excellent gentlemen and patriotic at heart, but they were misguided by misunderstanding the true situation and misjudging the sentiment of the people of this country, as has been demonstrated by the practically unanimous sentiment of members of both Houses of Congress.

"The representatives of the republic of Mexico were quick to jump at the conclusion that these agencies represented a large part of public opinion in this country, and, of course, the views of this segment of the American press were telegraphed to Mexico, copied in the Huerta press, and were eagerly seized upon by that government to maintain its position.

"Foreign measures are debatable on the floor of Congress, in committees of the Houses, in conference with the executive; the American government affords every possible opportunit yfor the expression of individual opinion. But when executive action becomes necessary and the President, before the world, takes a stand on any foreign affairs, the world must know that he is rendering not a personal opinion on any international matter, but that he is asserting the will of the nation which the people are ready, if need be, to execute by force of arms. Party differences are overcome by the logic of that situation.

Effect of Newspaper Attacks.

"At such a moment, attack on the declared foreign policy of a President raises a question not only of morality and ethics, but one of loyalty to the government, for the interests of the nation, not of a party, are at stake when the President of the United States goes before the world treating with a foreign power.

"To be sure, free speech and a free press are two of our most precious possessions. It must be remembered, however, that liberty in this respect is at all times restricted by the manifest rights of others; liberty of speech and liberty of the press in attack upon the government can never be permitted to weaken the authority of the nation's responsible head dealing with a foreign power.

"I raise the question:

"What is the duty of the press of the United States when their government has a delicate international problem to solve? That is a question which every editor in America has been called upon to answer twice since the Fourth of March. It has not been difficult for most editors, for they regard themselves as citizens before they are editors, and therefore, they have supported the policy of the government, through its chosen agents, when its policy commended itself to their judgment. When they were not convinced, they have acquiesced or pointed out, in a way that could not be used against their country, their views. As a rule, in the diplomatic differences growing out of the land legislation in California between this country and Japan; and the differences existing between our government and the Huerta administration in Mexico; the press has voiced and sustained the policies that the executive department of government has adopted.

Necessity of United National Support.

"The older nations of the world have learned during their centuries of experience the vital necessity of having their foreign policies supported by a united public and press. What we in America yield as a patriotic duty, they in the old world countries, expect not only through patriotism but as a matter of bounden obligation from the individual to the State.

"Those two great nations, England and France, were for centuries at war, until they regarded each other as traditional enemies. But the day came not long ago when the wise councils of a British King and a French President evolved that notable compact known as the 'entente cordiale.' Not a journal in London, Paris or in any corner of either country withheld its support and praise for that international policy by which two great nations, historic enemies, became friends.

"Ordinarily the extremes by which old world nations demand united support of international policies are contrary to our ideas and institutions. All we can hope to achieve is the free and independent action of each individual editor, based on his patriotic impulses, his love of country, the quickening of all ennobling sentiments, until the ethical principle is firmly established in American journalism that the voice of the nation's head, once expressed on a foreign question, is the voice of the united country.

When Jingoes Are Grave-diggers.

"There is a sensitiveness between nations. Supposed slights are of ten times more potent in provoking war than wrongs or injustice. If the American press publishes what unjustly inflames the American mind against another nation, is it not to be expected that a sensational press of the country will copy such inflammatory utterances and reply in kind? Such publications may be like applying a burning match to a mass of combustibles. If the conflagration follows who except the unwise editors dug the graves that war causes?"

CLARKTON ITEMS.

Dr. Clark Returns—Jones Brothers' Shows—Senator Evans.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Clarkton, N. C., Sept. 27.—Dr. Geo. L. Clark's friends will be glad to know that he returned this week from Johnson-Willis Sanatorium in Richmond, where he has been under treatment. It will be recalled that the doctor was thrown from his buggy about two months ago and seriously hurt. While he is not able to resume his practice, he is much improved.

Jones Brothers' shows were here for two performances yesterday and as the weather was good large crowds were in attendance.

Senator L. B. Evans came from Raleigh to spend the week-end. He says that he found plenty of work to do as many matters of interest had come up there.

DOINGS IN ROBESON COUNTY

Court to Convene in Lumberton Tomorrow—Pest Damages Cotton. Some Humorous Features of New Road Law.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 27.—The Lumberton postoffice situation has taken a new turn and is now where it was at first. When Mayor White began circulating a petition for signatures, asking for the purchase of the French lot, others got busy and it looked for a time that the Townsend lot, corner Seventh and Elm streets, might be secured, but there the matter stood until Mayor White went to Washington where he spent Thursday, returning home yesterday.

He stated that he was given assurance that another site inspector, one who had never been here and knew nothing about the situation, would be sent here to take a new start. He is expected to be here in a few days when the lots now available and any others that may be offered will be inspected. It has been stated that Mr. C. M. Fuller would offer his residence lot, Sixth and Chestnut, but he stated to your correspondent this morning that he had nothing whatever to offer.

No one subject was probably ever cussed and discussed here more than the present Robeson county road law. Some are parting with their change quietly, while others are not submitting so easily. A man from Durham who has been here for several weeks on a canvassing tour, was summoned this week, but after consulting an attorney or two and two or three road supervisors, he escaped. Mr. McDonald, who moved here from Wilmington, on the 12th of this month to begin working for the McAllister Hardware Co., was summoned on the 23rd to work the road. He is said to have paid up. A man living two miles from town who is very poor in this world's goods, has several children who are frequently forced to go without shoes in cold weather because the father is not able to buy them, was summoned to work the roads two days or cough up a dollar. He took time from his little cotton patch to cut four crossties, brought them here and sold to a dealer for a dollar to give the road fund, maybe taking the bread from his hungry children. All cannot be worked at one time, the number being too great, and no one is to be suited as to time. Mr. L. R. Varser, of the law firm of McLean, Varser & McLean, said last night that he had been summoned to work the Elizabeth road Monday, being ordered to appear at the town line at 7 o'clock with a shovel. We were told that Mr. A. W. McLean, senior member of the firm, had been summoned to report for duty at the same time and place, carrying a pick. And Monday is court.

A two weeks' term of Superior Court will convene Monday with Judge C. C. Lyon presiding. The calendar which has been published contains 69 cases, four of which are against the Atlantic Coast Line and one each against the Virginia-Carolina Southern and Aberdeen & Rockfish railroads. A remarkable fact is that the Seaboard Air Line and Raleigh & Charleston roads are not listed for any cases.

The Waverly Hotel has given notice that on October 1st, the rates will be increased. Instead of 50 cents for a meal, 75 cents will be the price. Lodging 75 cents instead of 50 cents, and the rate per day $2.50.

A furniture dealer here this week sold between $800 and $1,000 worth of furniture to be put in two new homes in town and the goods have already been delivered. Time was when all the nice furniture used here had to be ordered from elswhere, but that time has passed. Our merchants are right up to now in most every respect.

October 1st Mr. W. E. Horne, for some time with the Lumberton Barber Shop, will open a new shop between J. T. Biggs' store and Miss Breese's millinery store. Mr. Redmond will move his stock from the store to his big new store, on Fourth street.

A large new pipe organ is being installed in the Methodist church. All the churches in town except the Gospel Tabernacle are now equipped with pipe organs.

"Mutt and Jeff" will open the theatrical season here Friday night. Reserved seats on sale at McMillan's Wednesday morning.

From best information it seems that a large majority of mothers in town are very much opposed to the hours being observed at the graded school. Formerly the children carried their lunch and enjoyed recess on the grounds, but now they are given time to go home for dinner. As a result, many of them return late, quite a number do not get back until next morning, and in many cases the afternoons are thrown away. The opinion of many is that the afternoon session is a farce. The teachers cannot give the service under the new rule they did under the old. But the new rule is only an experiment.

Mr. Irvin Jenkins brought to town yesterday two stalks of cotton taken from a four-acre field that was simply pitiful to look at. The stalks were of good growth, probably half bolled, but there was not a boll on either stalk that had not been injured by some kind of a bug or worm. Holes nearly as large as buckshot are made in the bolls and in a short time the whole inside is dead and rotten. Mr. Jenkins says he will not get a bale from the four acres. He has other fields which are only slightly affected, but we have talked with a number of farmers from different sections who give the same report regarding the pests. No one seems to know what it is, but some think it is the boll weevil while others do not think so. Whatever it may be it is surely playing havoc with the cotton crop in this county. Farm Demonstrator Boon puts the county crop at 60,000 bales, but many people are of the opinion that he will find his estimate too high.

Political campaigns where there are two separate and distinct parties in the field, get very interesting sometimes, but there is no comparison in a political campaign to opposition bill posting crews of circuses. Lumberton is to have two circuses next month, only four days apart, and to an outsider who knows something of the working of these opposition crews it is interesting. These fellows with brush and paste will paste each other worse than the Mexican regulars and rebels.

Rev. O. L. Stringfield, assistant superintendent of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, will speak at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and at the Presbyterian church in the evening at 7:45.

Mr. H. M. McAllister has been confined to his home the past week suffering from an attack of malaria but is improving.

Mrs. Daisy Jenkins has moved into the McLean house on Sixth and Walnut streets where she will conduct a boarding house for the graded school teachers. Prof. Sentelle and family, who recently moved into the house, have moved into the Dan Prevatt house on Pine street.

Mr. J. S. Thompson, Jr., who was operated on for appendicitis at the Thompson Hospital last Saturday, is improving and if no complications arise, will soon be out of danger. Dr. Thompson says it was one of the most successful operations he ever performed, especially when Mr. Thompson's condition was considered. If faithful and efficient service counts for anything patients will always find themselves in good hands at the Thompson Hospital.

Dr. W. A. McPhaul, who has been in a Fayetteville hospital for treatment the past several days, is reported as being greatly improved and is expected at home at any time.

DOINGS. ..... pc...

Mr. Dennis Biggs will go to Fayetteville tomorrow to accompany home Mrs. Biggs and little son, who have been in that city for several days, where the little boy was carried for treatment.

Chas. Dilliard, who has been taking the whiskey cure on the chain gang for the past two months, returned home this week and advises his friends to stay away from that place.

The postoffice business here needs more help. We are told that business has doubled within the past month or two, but there is no increase in force and the eight-hour law being rigidly enforced certainly cripples the business. The parcel post business is certainly a drawback to the postoffice service so far as prompt handling of the mails is concerned.

The report from Mr. James Robinson, who is in a hospital in Florence, S. C., as a result of having his back broken in a runaway at Marion last Sunday, is that he is still living, but no hopes are entertained for his recovery. His sister, Mrs. R. W. Shelby, of this place, is with him.

THE M'NAIR LECTURES.

President of University of Minnesota Will Deliver Series in January.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 27.—The 1914 series of McNair lectures of the University of North Carolina will be delivered in January by Dr. George Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, and president of the Chautauqua.

Dr. Vincent is considered one of the most virile thinkers and creative administrators in the country. As the executive head of the University of Minnesota, and as head of the educational institution at Chautauqua, New York, he has had wonderful success. He is also author of a number of books of scientific and popular interest.

The McNair lectures for 1913, delivered by President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale University, have been issued in book form by the Yale University Press under the title, "Some Influences in Modern Philosophic Thought." This was the fifth of the series of the McNair lectures.

In book form the lectures are receiving favorable comment in many parts of the country. The author treats modern thought from the standpoint o fthe sociologist rather than from that of the psyschologist; and this is what gives the book its distinctive character. He does not attempt to expound in detail the successive philosophies of the nineteenth century. He goes a step farther back and tries to show the concrete cause which led students and men of affairs to the interested in the successive philosophies; to tell some of the things that happened in the world of science and the world of politics which made people crave for a different sort of explanation of the universe at the end of the century from that that satisfied them at the beginning.

SKATING ON DARK STREETS.

To the Editor of The Star:

I wish to call your attention to one of the greatest nuisances in the city, as well as a source of very much danger, that is, skating in the middle and all over Third street at night. It seems to me that if parents do not realize the risk they are allowing their children to run from automobiles and other vehicles, that the city government should try to protect them by prohibiting skating after dark in the middle of comparatively dark streets.

I passed up Third street last night about 8 o'clock, and from the corner of Third to Chesnut to the corner of Third and Grace it was almost impossible to pass with a car and not run over some of them. They paid no attention whatever to the signals I gave them, and while I was running the car very slowly, I had difficulty in getting through, and at the corner of Third and Grace I came very near running over a boy. He decided to skate along by the side of my car, although I called to him to move away, and as I approached the corner of Grace, I called to him that I was going to turn the corner. He paid no attention, however, and skated immediately in front of the car, and I only avoided going over him by suddenly turning the car in the other direction and then missed him only by a hair's breadth.

As above stated, there is great danger in allowing children this privilege, as they do not realize danger, and if parents do not see their own responsibility and keep their children off the streets at night, I think it is the duty of the city government to try to protect them. I feel sure you will realize the importance of investigating a matter of this kind, and trust you will publish this.

Respectfully yours,
A MOTHER.

The will of Mayor William J. Gaynor, late of New York, has been filed. The estate is worth $2,000,000. The wife and children share it, but two married daughters are cut off with $1,000 each. Both of them eloped and married against the old man's wishes.

Senator Works, of California, in a speech Thursday at San Diego, Cal., declared that the United States ought to put a stop to the butchery of Americans in Mexico, declaring that men are humiliated and women outraged almost within gunshot of the boundary line.

Dr. E. C. Shackleford, a Kentuckian living for six years at Santa Rosalia, Mexico., was driven out by the rebels last week and all his property confiscated. He was allowed to leave with his life and a suit case of personal belongings, and was glad to get away with that.

At the meeting of Carolina and Virginia postmasters at Norfolk Thursday Postmaster McKesson, of Morganton, N. C., paid a glowing tribute to President Wilson, declaring him the greatest chieftain since Thomas Jefferson; and Republican postmasters applauded.

The Senate and House failed to agree on the cotton tax bill, in conference of the committees during the week. The Senate adopted the Clark amendment taxing cotton futures one-tenth of one cent a pound when no cotton is delivered; and the House has a provision differing so widely that the measure will have to go back to the floor of each body.

"Keep boys on the farm" was the advice of Governor Cox to the Farmers' National Congress at Plano, Ill., last week. He and others declared that the high cost of living is due to the emigration of farming population to cities. Incidentally they argued for community life, things that would make country life attractive, moving pictures, entertainments, good roads, and so forth.

Several total abstainers have just been expelled from the student body of Greenswald University, Germany. In June the students had a "beer night," in celebration of the kaiser's jubilee. Some of the abstainers objected and were reprimanded. They criticised the reprimand and were sent to the dungeon, and finally were expelled. No, all is not dry in Germany yet!

A conference was held Tuesday in the office of the Secretary of Commerce at Washington by Representatives in Congress from Maryland and Virginia, relative to the destruction of food fish in the Cheapeake and its tributaries. Speaker Champ Clark, more or less tied up in his chair, has been listening to Republican Congressmen howling about the iniquities of the Democratic caucus until he could stand it no longer, and Wednesday he came down to the floor of the house and turned loose. "This continued howl about the caucus is the most idiotic thing that has ascended to heaven in the last generation," he shouted.

President Wilson declares that his policy of moral suasion in Mexico has succeeded in its cardinal purposes—the elimination of Huerta as President and the guarantee of fair, constitutional elections. Nothing more will be done until the elections are held next month, and then if they are fair, this country will recognize the new President and proceed along that line. Huerta will not be a candidate.

Declaring that he did not believe anybody whose opinion was worth having, objected to his chautauqua lecturing, William J. Bryan announced the other day that his circuit was over and he had cleared about $6,500 for seven lectures. He made no bones about it and good as told 'em if they didn't like it they could "go to." It develops that Bryan is educating several young men, two of them Japs, and is supporting a missionary in every important foreign field.

Leo Baker, arraigned in the Federal Court at Wichita, Kansas, on charge of violating the Mann white slave act, was acquitted under instructions of Judge John C. Pollock Tuesday, when that jurist constructed the act to mean the transportation of women from one State to another for immoral purposes. He declared Congress did not have in mind a man's personal escapades. In California Diggs and Caminetti were found guilty of the same sort of a charge as Baker was acquitted of. The men in each case had eloped with girls, but had not, strictly speaking, violated the inter-State commerce provision.

Miss Mary Shoe, a young waitress, died in a hotel at Greensboro Wednesday night, either through taking a drug purposely or by taking too much of it to relieve a severe headache. Her home was in China Grove.

The extra session of the Legislature met and organized Wednesday, and Thursday heard Governor Craig's message urging the adoption of the rate offer of the railroads. The night before, the Just Freight Rate Association declined to approve of the proposal and demanded a new railroad rate commission. The House and Senate both adopted a resolution limiting legislation to rate and constitutional amendments, except where emergency arose.

J. H. Taylor, a merchant in Greensboro, was shot and killed by unknown parties in his store Wednesday night. Several weeks ago his store was burglarized and since then he had been on the lookout. Evidently hearing a noise, he went into the store in his night clothes and caught the burglars, who must have shot him with his own revolver, as it is missing. He was found lying in his blood next morning, with all the lights in the store turned on.

Frederick Wiseman, whose wife had separated from him and who was supposed to be in Chester, Pa., turned up in Kinston Wednesday and while the woman was asleep, took their baby from her side and secreted it, later declaring it had been sent to Chester, Pa. As she would prefer no charge against him, officers could make him produce the child; and as a man's home is where his family is, they could not get him for breaking into the house.

There appears to be a probability that in the event President Wilson declines a second nomination, the name of Senator Simmons will be urged. He is closer to Wilson than any other man, is the most prominent man in Congress, the most powerful; and he has impressed the nation as being safe and sane and most capable It is said that there is not a little talk of running him if Wilson decides that the plank in the platform relative to one term is binding on him.

She had found herself without funds in a strange town and money was made up to send her to her home; and there wasn't time to catch the train by walking or waiting for a hack, so the policeman was ordered to transport her on his bike. She took the rear seat and rode without mishap to the train.

Mr. Will Corbett, of Ivanhoe, in the city Wednesday, said that the stock question in Sampson county had become the big topic, that sentiment was divided and a large delegation pro and con would go to Raleigh when the matter comes up next week. He said Mr. B. F. Keith, collector of customs here, who is an active advocate of stock law, had become more widely discussed in Sampson than the stock law itself—was the issue, in fact.

Ozarks will soon be exploited by umber men.

GOOD ROADS CRUCIAL POINT

Need of Economical and Systematic Expenditure of Money for Highways and Expert Engineer Assistance is Noted.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist, has issued the following statement:

The Legislature of 1913, at its regular session, passed about 56 road bills of a local nature, practically all of them providing for the procuring of funds for building roads either by a bond issue or special tax, and one bill applying to all the counties of the State, except four, by which any townships can vote $50,000,000 in bonds.

These enactments have made it possible for the counties and townships to vote bonds to the extent of about $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. Since the adjournment of the Legislature, about $3,000,000 in bonds have been voted. Absolutely no provision was made by the Legislature for the systematic and economic expenditure of this money, and it was left entirely to local officials.

The present method of handling the road problem and spending the road fund in most of the counties of North Carolina is such that there is spent each year in actual cash and labor on amount approximating $900,000, with practically nothing to show for it in the way of road construction or maintenance; so it is a well recognized fact that these methods of road location, construction and maintenance are obsolete and entirely inadequate.

A great many of the counties and townships are realizing this and are turning to the State for help; and the Highway Department of the Geological Survey receives almost daily requests for road engineers to assist in building sometimes stretches of road which are to be paid for by subscription of private citizens, who are doing this in order to give an object lesson to their fellow county citizens in road building; other requests from counties to assist them in the location, construction and maintenance of their roads; and requests from many townships having limited bond issue, and which wish to get their full value of the money which they have made a strenuous effort to obtain. In other words, the counties are now looking to the State for assistance in public road building, because public roads are no longer local matters; and their proper building and maintenance are of interest to all of the citizens of the State.

Below is a letter recently received from Mr. O. L. Clark, President of the Bladen County Good Roads Association, which is a good example of those which are constantly being received by the Highway Department of the Geological Survey:

"The citizens of Clarkton and Elizabethtown have gotten up contributions to the amount of about $4,000 with which to connect the two towns wih sand-clay road. We are extremely anxious that every dollar of this money does its full duty, that the results may show to the best advantage and further we realize that to fail in our desire to accomplish the greatest possible outcome will hurt further work very much.

"Is there a chance to get from the department aid in surveying, or an inspection or supervisor while the work is being done?"

Our limited appropriation of $5,000 annually makes it not only impossible to meet the requests for road engineers, but even to carry on the educational work in the way of road addresses, which are being called for all over the State. In every other State wheer highway work is being carried on successfully there is a Highway Commission, organized along the lines of efficiency rather than politics; and North Carolina is in urgent need of such a department. If this is not established, it is more than likely that the major part of the money now being raised for road work will be foolishly expended. In a great many instances, the engineers are refusing to work for county officials, because their surveys are not accepted; and roads continue, even in this enlightened age, to be located by local politics, and where such is the case, no competent engineers will stay on the job.

Those who have studied road matters feel that the State has reached a more or less crucial point, and unless steps are taken in the right direction in the matter of furnishing State aid, we are going to make a big mistake, the extent of which only the future will reveal.

Tackle Catarrh Now Be Free All Winter

Avoid Colds, Stall Pneumonia, Keep Your Nose Clear and Your Throat Free.

Don't Wait Till You're All Bunged Up. Use S. S. S. Now.

If you will go into any first class store and get a bottle of S. S. S. you are on the way to getting rid of Catarrh. But don't let anyone work off that old trick of something "Just as good."

S. S. S. is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, comes through all the veins and arteries, enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

The medicinal components of S. S. S. are relatively just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritive properties of the grains, meats, sugars, and fats of foods. Any local irritating influence in the blood is rejected by the tissue cells and eliminated by reason of the stimulating influence of S. S. S.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write to The Swift Specific Co., 202 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not trifle with substitutes, imitations or any of the horde of "Just as good" Counterfeits of S. S. S.

PLEASANT FIELDS OF HOLY WRIT.

Among the pleasant fields of Holy Writ,

The International Sunday-School Lesson.

Third Quarter. Lesson 13.

September 28, 1913.

DELIVERANCE AND DISOBEDIENCE

For sustained interest, scenic effects, trying situations, unlooked for deliverances, the lessons of this quarter form a narrative unsurpassed by the most thrilling fiction ever written. "Romola," or "Tale of Two Cities," or "Heart o' Mid-Lothian," are not to be compared to it.

The scene shifts from the rustic hills and dales of Canaan to the Nile valley, with its superb civilization and its architecture characterized by a reserved grandeur; thence to Goshen, the "land of verdure," the pleasant and goodly pasturage; thence to the great triangle between the arms of the sea, the Sinaitic peninsula, with its granite cliffs and silent canyon.

Moses is easily the most towering personality of the Old Testament. We find him first in his river-rocked cradle on the mystic Nile. Then undergoing his double tutelage, that of the court in all Egypt's wisdom, and of his mother in the pious annals of the patriarchs. Next flashes out that signal instance of self-oblivion which deliberately rejected the treasures of Egypt for the affliction of God's people. The premature effort at emancipation is followed by the flight into Midian, whose awful solitudes were educative in themselves. Next we see the lonely shepherd bowing before that shaggy acacia, transmuted into a golden shrine. Next we see him waving his wonder-working rod over Egypt and evoking plague after plague to break the iron will of the Pharaoh. We find him standing on the west shore, opening with his crook a path through the deep for a myriad of manumitted serfs who have just partaken of a newly-instituted and most significant sacrament. We see the same towering figure standing on the east shore of the sea and with the same rod converting what had been a highway for the fugitives into a grave for their pursuers.

Now begins Israel's march of mystery through the wilderness. The commissariat problem becomes urgent at once. Under the most favorable conditions the provisioning of such an emigrant host would have taxed an expert quartermaster general. But the exigencies of the case make it the most remarkable of history. For the people in such an environment not to have "murmured" would have been unnatural. Fear is the worst of epidemics. As usual under such conditions, the people overrated their past advantages and underrated their past perils. The melancholy stampede was a real disgrace. See the long-suffering patience of God! The last word of the people is "bread." God's first word is promise of "bread from heaven."

Now the emigrant nation came to the Almighty's secret audience chamber, Mt. Sinai. Here the setting of nature is appropriate to the scene of superlative majesty. Three million people stood and looked upon the granite throne of the Almighty. Nature was agitated. The mount shook. Speech of man breaks down in effort to describe the Theophany—that most august sight of earth.

If the Decalogue had been give in Palestine, it might be inferred that it was intended for the Jew, to whom Palestine belonged. Not there, but in the wilderness the law was given; and the wilderness belonged to everybody.

Again, the cliff from which the Decalogue was given belongs to the most enduring strata. The Decalogue is even more enduring. Heaven and earth may pass away, but the Law never!

Rugged though the Decalogue is, it is still saturated with love. It is not arbitrary commandment with pains and personalities, but rather a loving covenant between God and man.

Spite of all the mighty works the people's religious perceptions were indistinct. They were very far short of the idea of the spirituality of God. They coveted a visible palladium. They required Aaron to make one. This was the occasion to which Stephen refers when their hearts they turn back to Egypt. That glittering image carried in the van would be a substitute for the fire-cloud pillar. The image of Egypt's famed Apis would be an aegis under which they might shelter themselves. Just then Moses returned. Great and just was his anger. He took the granite fragments of the broken tables of the Law to grind the golden calf to powder. Then he went up the staircase of Sinai once more, to intercede for the guilty nation.

Young People's Devotional Service. September 28, 1913. 2 Cor. 9:6-15. Missionary Essentials at Home and Abroad: (III) Giving.

"God loveth an hilarious giver"! He sets the example. The atmosphere of the earth is 70 miles deep. Will it ever be breathed up? There are 722 million cubic miles of water on the earth's surface. Will it ever be drunk up? The oak shakes, and enough acorns fall to earth to plant a thousand forests. Will seed ever fail? In this abundance of nature it is as if God was saying, "Do thou likewise."

..By the Wayside..

A Summer car on the beach line—a please-don't-rain vehicle—was rattling through a heavy rain last Sunday afternoon on the way to town and the canvass shutters let the wetness in. People on the weather side had to vacate their seats and the seats got wet. At one of the stations a young lady got aboard and stood, as others were doing; she stopped at the first seat at the rear. At the next station two negro women got on and several negro men and crowded around her, a lonesome white figure, and when the women saw the wet seat in front of the young lady, they made mirations, whereupon one of the negroes with excessive ostentation, spread down his coat on the seat, and they sat thereon. The car was crowded with white men. The young lady stood up till she got off at Front and Princess. Sir Walter Raleigh lived a long time ago and his coat is dust these many generations and that mud hole has long since dried up.

He was an old gentleman and had served in his niche for many years. Finally there came a day when a progressive management decided he was getting too old for the job, and he was replaced with a smart young fellow, a new system with all sorts of new-fangled notions was introduced, and the old man was given simpler duties and didn't have much to occupy his time. At first he seemed lost, away from his wonted place and task, and made rather a forlorn picture as he moved about in the same "church," as it were, but in a different "pew." He never said a word but doubtless he thought much and doubtless he kept an eye on the way things were going under the new regime. Doubtless he wasn't a bit surprised when, after a time, the new system broke down under the administration of the more modern young man, and the young man got the bounce; and he, the faithful, but outworn official, was put back on his old job. Nobody knew what he thought or felt, because he never said a word; but it is hardly possible that there wasn't a thrill and a new interest in life and things when he got hold of the reins once more. One of the very many tragedies of the workaday world is that men grow old in their own particular nooks and corners of the business structure, and finally the tide of time creeps in, scizes them and bears them away, driftwood henceforth.

Tolerance is about the finest trait you can have in your character. A tolerant man is charitable, and if he's charitable, he is about as good as they make 'em, no matter whatever else he is. But there is one point where tolerance breaks down and ceases to be a virtue—tolerance of intolerance. With freedom squatting on the heights where of old she has sat, and with liberty the first word on every man's mouth in this whole country, we have a very large crop of intolerance everywhere and too much tolerance of intolerance. There is a tremendous moral movement thundering its way from coast to coast about every so often, and it little recks of anything but a magnificent ideal of perfection away off across unfathomable space that can only be bridged in the process of the suns—that, and a consuming desire to steam roll everybody who hints at anything practical in this series of move-ments, and to order human life by a code from the legislative Sinai.

People just as earnest as the most of the crusaders, and a sight more consistent than a whole lot of them, but who would mix in some common sense and a modicum of the truth that experience has yielded from its crucible, too often daren't open their mouths lest they be summarily put among the goats; and they hesitate to oppose hysteria lest they work some harm to a cause really good, when stripped of its imbecile trimmings. The American mind takes to a mob, good or bad, and when the moral mob comes hurtling along to lynch a vice a million years old, it either joins in or stands close by and watches the ludicrous efforts to end forever a thing that has defied extermination since Adam; and, if one raises a voice to suggest utilizing the energy wasted, in a slower but a much more certain channel of activity; if he so much as names "regulation" instead of "destruction," let him look to his scalp!

Thus, intolerance reigns, and few there be who dast to get intolerant with it; and some of the great little moral captains in every community, often shot clear through with nice little sins of their own, run their little pasttime of regulating the morals of everybody else, cheerfully ignoring the cold, hard facts of human experience and apparently unaware that more times than otherwise, their efforts to reform the human race at one fell swoop have resulted in but aggravating bad conditions and in making bad matters worse. And the old guy who has a record that smells to heaven, who, before he clothed himself with sanctity and went abroad with a self-made halo circling his brow, demanding that all men walk the straight and narrow, did all sorts of abominable things—why he is the greatest crusader of them all! The tougher he was before he "got right," the more intolerant of the failings in others, the louder his preachments, the more vehement si utterances.

But should a man be estopped from doing something for righteousness' sake merely because he was bad once? Just because he used to get drunk, should he keep on getting drunk? If he was guilty of robbing people, and was made sorry, usually by being caught, ought he never to lift up his voice against wrong? Not at all. But he ought to have the common decency to keep off the rostrum, out of the limelight, and sit among the publicans, and when inclined to incinerate somebody for disagreeing with him on his so-called moral crusade, he ought to remember the time when he was himself rotten clear through, and speak softly. He ought to be most tolerant of men, and when he gets intolerant, those who are usually tolerant ought to grow intolerant, too, and give him the boot.

She was a very pretty woman but—she knew it! She swept along the street in her finery with that calm, complacent, self-satisfied and superior expression, touched with hauteur, which advertises to the effect, "I am it—Behold!" It was very painful. Vanity sat ill upon a face that had no need of it. Why do they do it? A beautiful woman is most beautiful when she is wholly unconscious of her beauty—not unconscious, of course, for that would mean death itself; but without letting anybody know that she thinks she is the prettiest thing that ever happened. Instead of making them catch their breath as she passed, they smiled. "Gad," they said, "did you cop that look?" Made herself cheap in the eyes of common white trash. It is painful—a little piece of tragedy, in a way; but let us glance at the comedienne who is ugly as home-made sin but whose whole happy countenance is wreathed in garlands of satisfaction over knowing that she is perfectly lovely—glance, and laugh!

Millions of people in New York honored their dead Mayor Monday when his funeral was held. The streets were lined and business was suspended. A million of school children participated.

DANGER SIGNALS TO WOMEN.

Is what one physician called backache, headache, nervousness and the blues. In nine cases out of ten they are symptoms of some female derangement or an inflamatory, ulcerative condition, curable by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of American women willingly testify to its virtue.
